Name of Vessel   Right   Refer   Ref		Finding of the Court of Inquiry.		Loss result of circumstances altogether beyond the control of parties con- cerned.	Error of judgment on part of pilot in charge.	George Baker, mate of the Golden Crown, did not properly comply	with articles 15 and 15 of the Kergulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea.	Supposed to have foundered at sea during heavy S.E. gale.	Heavy gale caused vessel to drag anchor; no blame attached to master.	Casualty unavoidable; master not to blame.	Not sufficient allowance made for strength of tide.	Error of judgment in not having steered a more weatherly course.	In absence of master and officers, no conclusion can be arrived at; but if men's account is to be relied on, vessel should not have been taken from Melbourne without docking and thorough repair. It seems a most extraordinary proceeding to strand a ship on the rocks—after being at anchor for several days—kedged ashore in order to "break her up to save what material they could." Assistance at the pump was obtained from the Island, and there is nothing to show that any in-
