BOYS' HIGH SCHOOL, CHRISTCHURCH.

Report for 1896.

A new wing was added to the school this year and opened on the 20th February. It comprises the lecture-room already described. Above the lecture-room are two class-rooms; in a basement below it is a new laboratory, a dark room, &c. The accommodation is already fully occupied. Gymnastic apparatus has been fitted up in a large room called the "Orderly-room" (used also for cadets), and large voluntary classes are held in it daily under the direction of a master. New out-buildings, comprising urinals, &c., were also erected in 1896.

The staff comprised the headmaster, nine full-time masters, two part-time masters, and visiting masters in drill, swimming, singing, model-drawing and carpentry. This, with 259 boys on the roll, gives a somewhat high average of pupils per master. At the recent December examinations fifteen boys matriculated, three passed the Medical Preliminary, one boy headed the list of Junior University scholars, and three others passed that examination with credit, one of whom obtained a Gammack scholarship. One boy was second in order of merit on the Junior Civil Service list for 1896; and in that year the degree of M.A. was awarded to Mr. G. Lancaster, an old pupil, with double first-class honours in mathematics and chemistry; to Mr. H. Craddock, with second-class honours in Latin and Greek, and to Mr. J. M. Waddell, with second-class honours in Latin and English. Another old pupil won the John Tinline scholarship, and another the Senior University scholarship for political science. The school is examined every year by outside examiners appointed by the Board.
