

Notes from the Hospitals and Personal Items

Births

To Mr. and Mrs. Ross (Sister E. E. Beattie) a daughter, on April 18th, 1919.

On July 1st at her home, Matakoho, Mrs. Rodney Coates (Nurse Tebbutt, of Auckland Hospital) had a little daughter.

Galloway.—On Tuesday, June 3rd, 1919, at Wellington, to Mrs. Frances Galloway (nee Brandon), Lyall Bay—a son.

Mrs. Mabel Coates (nee Nurse Illingworth) writes announcing the birth of her son, Jack Illingworth Coates. Mr. and Mrs. Coates who have both seen active service, and returned to New Zealand about eighteen months ago, are now settled on their sheep farm, "Cazna," Putorina, H.B.

Marriages

At Pukekohe Methodist Church, on April 24th, 1919, Mr. Harold Cockrell, of Otaki, to Nurse Winifred Usher.

At Brighton, England, on April 7th, Sergeant E. Busing, N.Z.D.C., Christchurch, to Sister Nina Ansenne, N.Z.A.N.S.

Sister Constance Cutforth, who returned on the Kigoma on July 15th, was married on that day to Mr. A. G. Warburton, Te Awamutu, and has gone to her new home.

Sister Kathleen Wylie, late of Auckland Hospital, and who recently returned from active service in Egypt, was married from her parent's residence in Auckland to Captain A. Martin Ross.

Sister Olive Malcolm was married on June 20th to Mr. Norman Tilley, and is now with her husband starting farming at Takapau, Hawke's Bay.

Sister Brodie, late of Wellington and Gisborne Hospitals, who has been privately nursing in Gisborne for some time was married on May 25th to Mr. William Clark, son of Mr. John Clark, of Opon, Gisborne, and sailed by the Ionic to spend her honeymoon in England and Scotland.

HAGGITT—INGRAM.—A military wedding of considerable interest took place in Holy Trinity Church, Richmond, Nelson, last week, when Private Hugh Eric Haggitt, of Balclutha, was united in matrimony to Sister Jean Grant Ingram, of the New Zealand Army Nursing Service, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ingram, Richmond. Two Union Jacks were gracefully arranged above the bridal party at the altar. The bride wore the military nursing uniform, and carried a grey suede Prayer Book, with white ribbon tipped with orange blossoms; Miss Ivy Ingram, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and wore a grey georgette frock, hand-embroidered in self shades, with hat also of grey georgette and scarlet flowers. She carried a bouquet consisting of scarlet anemones and carnations and maiden-hair fern. The bridegroom and his brother, Lieutenant Norman Haggitt, were in military uniform. The street from the bride's home to the church was beflagged. Among the many and costly presents was a silver teapot sent by the returned soldiers in-patients and out-patients of the Nelson Hospital. Mrs. Haggitt's future home is in Otago, near Balclutha.

RADFORD—DE VEAUX.—One of the prettiest weddings recently seen in the Poona district took place at All Saints' Church, Kirkee, on Tuesday, March 4th (says the "Deccan Herald" of India), when Lieutenant E. J. Radford, of the Rifle Brigade (attached to the Military Accounts Department), was united in wedlock to Beatrice de Veaux, of the Australian Army Nursing Service. The service, which was fully choral, was conducted by the Rev. C. P. Graydon Tibbs, Senior Chaplain, assisted by the Rev. W. W. Alsop, Chaplain of the Deccan British War Hospital, where for the past three years the bride has been one of the senior sisters. The bride, who was given away by Lieut-