Reid, trained at the School of Domestic Science, at Dunedin, and was afterwards at the John Hopkins' Hospital for two years, having been granted a scholarship by the Rockfellow Foundation.

PERSONALS.

Miss Blathwayte, trained at Christchurch Hospital, is now in Wellington working for the Temperance and General Insurance Co. She and her mother have a flat in Hawkstone Street.

Miss Jean Allan is now living in Wellington. She is doing some visiting nursing, and has been relieving Miss Whitelaw while the latter has been taking a well-earned holiday.

Miss Whitelaw has a car which helps her very much in her extensive practice of visiting nursing.

Sisters MacMullan and Mrs. Dement (Nurse Lilian Walker) have been spending a holiday at the Nurses' College in Picton Sounds. They much enjoyed their stay, during which they had a thorough rest bathing and fishing.

Mrs. Sadd (Sister Flora Smith) and her husband also spent a very enjoyable holiday at Pelorus Sounds, where they had their own whare and fishing boat.

Nurse M. Lidsham, of Wellington Hospital, has gone to Sydney.

News from Miss Ewart, late Matron of the Southland Hospital, is from Florence, where she was much enjoying sight-seeing. Miss Ewart does not expect to return for about twelve months.

Sister Kathleen Welch, Reserve New Zealand A.N.S., who returned to the Dominion about nine months ago, after two years' nursing in Newfoundland, has gone back to England, where she intends to rejoin the Colonial Nursing Association, which sends nurses to various parts of the British Dominions.

Sister Tucker, late New Zealand A.N.S., is still nursing in Melbourne. She spent a holiday in Sydney, and then she and Sister Lea met for the first time since the war.

Sister Shirtcliff, who has been away for some time in England and abroad, is now in charge of a Heliotherapy Clinic in London. She sends a few notes on her work.

Sister Ruth Sanderson writes from the Waikato Hospital that she had been for seven months in the Te Kuiti Hospital, and came back to Hamilton feeling much better for the change, and is now under artificial pneumo thorax treatment.
