COMPLETE COLLAPSE OF AN ATHLETE.

HE BROKE DOWN THROUGH OVER-TRAINING, BUT IS AGAIN FIT AND FEARLESS.

(From the Balmain 'Observer'.)

It has been stated that Mr W. H. Beattie, an athlete and boxer of some repute, who had broken down whilst at Hanover-street, Lewsbury. The change of life had left her weak and miserable; with constant pains, dizziness and shortness of breath on the slightest exertion, together with chronic rheumatism in the head and eyes. The pain in her head was too acute for words; she got no sleep either by day or by night, and her agony was at times so great that it took two people to hold her in bed. A skilful doctor was called in, but did no good. 'My cheeks would swell up as big as saucers,' says Mrs Smith; 'my eyes were as red as fire, and there was no getting rid of the pains in the head. I also suffered from a sluggish liver and a weak heart, and at times my eyesight was so bad that objects before me seemed but dim shadows, and there were none of my friends who looked for my restoration to health.'

'I got into a very low state,' said the gentleman. 'My flesh lost its firmness and elasticity; my appetite was very poor, and I thought my fighting career was over for good. You must know that I have held the amateur lightweight championship, and in my time, have fought most of the best men in the colony. As a matter of fact, I was training for the lightweight championship of the colony when I broke down, of course through over-training. The very thought of a boxing-glove or a punching-bag made me feel sick. I abandoned all hope of the championship, and took a complete rest. My arms and legs had given way, as it were, and I felt it was about as much as I could do to walk up as far as the park (close by), and sit down. I tried several tonics, but instead of getting better, the opposite resulted, so I consulted two or three doctors, who said I only wanted rest, and they each in turn gave me some physic, but this only made me feel sick. It did me no good. One day I was sitting in the park in a hopeless sort of way, wondering if I should ever get my strength back, when I read in a newspaper the account of a cure in a case which seemed somewhat similar to my own. The remedy used was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I went into the town, and bought a box. After taking a dozen or so I noticed a most decided effect. They acted like a pick-me-up. I stuck to the pills and got stronger and more cheerful every day. I got back my lost appetite, and soon grew so well that I actually felt a longing to have a turn at the punching-bag again. I took four boxes altogether, and feel now as fit as a fiddle, and I intend to start training again almost immediately. I am sure that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have put me right, and I consider them a splendid tonic for those indulging in heavy work, such as training. For I believe that strict training is the heaviest and most trying work in the world. I shall always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to my fellow-athletes when they go 'off colour.'

'I saw an account in a newspaper of a cure similar to mine through the use of Dr Williams' Pink Pills, and my husband urged me to try them. Before two boxes were used the pains had disappeared as if by magic, and the continued use of the Pills for a little more than a month has left me enjoying as good health as ever I had in my life. I consider Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a blessing, and as I know there are thousands of women who suffer in silence from troubles having the same origin as mine, I am grateful enough for what they have done for me to tell my story in the hope that some suffering sister may be similarly helped, and you have full permission to publish what I have told you, which statements can be verified by any of my neighbours.'

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have a remarkable efficacy in curing diseases arising from an impoverished condition of the blood or an impairment of the nervous system, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, nervous headache, nervous prostration and the tired feeling arising therefrom. They are genuine only with the full name, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and are sold in boxes, encircled which is a blue warning label. ## CHANGE OF LIFE.

DIZZINESS AND SHORTNESS OF BREATH CURED.

What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do for women at the change of life is shown in a case reported in the Dewsbury (Eng.) Chronicle. It is that of Mrs Benjamin Smith, who lives at Hanover-street, Lewsbury. The change of life had left her weak and miserable; with constant pains, dizziness and shortness of breath on the slightest exertion, together with chronic rheumatism in the head and eyes. The pain in her head was too acute for words; she got no sleep either by day or by night, and her agony was at times so great that it took two people to hold her in bed. ## AN ANAEMIC DAUGHTER RESCUED FROM DEATH. NOW POSSESSES PERFECT HEALTH.

Miss May Hutchison, of St. George's Road, North Fitzroy, Melbourne, was only too pleased to see our representative, who had waited on her to obtain her experience of the results produced by a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which she had taken in the hope of securing a recovery to health, a recovery that, we were informed by the chemist who had supplied her with the remedy, had become an accomplished fact.

'You have been living here some time?' was queried of Miss Hutchison.

'All my lifetime. I am now 18.'

'And your health?'

'Well,' said Mrs Hutchison, who was present, 'after her 15th birthday she became very delicate, and suffered from poorness of blood. It turned to water at periodical times, and that was what a prominent ladies' doctor said.'

'He prescribed some remedy, of course?'

'Yes, and she remained under his care for some months, but without any benefit accruing. Indeed, she became worse day by day, until I commenced to fear for her life. A young chemist suggested her trying Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and she did so, with the result that she rapidly recovered her previous good health.'

'Did you take much of the medicine?' we asked Miss Hutchison.

'No; only a few boxes. I am perfectly cured, and can recommend them strongly to my girl acquaintances. In fact, I have done so, and a young lady at Clifton Hill, who was a great sufferer, is now taking them with much success.'

'You are willing that the public should know of your recovery, Miss Hutchison?'

'You have our full permission,' said Mrs Hutchison; and added: 'I only hope no mother will experience the pain I felt when I thought I saw my daughter fading away.'

Thanking Miss Hutchison and her mother for her kindness, and congratulating Miss May on her robust and excellent health, our interviewer withdrew.

A SAFEGUARD AGAINST HEADACHES.

'Merrylands,' Barradine Creek, Via Narrabri and Pilliga. To the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Queen's Place, Sydney. Sir,—I have much pleasure in describing another box of your wonderful Pink Pills. I can safely say they are a wonderful medicine: from the use of them I have derived great benefit. I have already had two boxes of your Pink Pills, and I am now ordering a third; but I can already testify as to the good your Pink Pills have done me. The first box I received in the summer months, during which time I suffer extremely from headaches, etc. Last summer I enjoyed splendid health, being never troubled with either pain or ache.

I heartily recommend them to all sufferers as being a really good medicine. Enclosed find 2/9 in stamps for another box of Pink Pills.

You can make whatever use you think fit of this testimony.

Yours respectfully,
ELIZABETH FORREST.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVITIES.

Christmas, 1897, will soon be upon us with its accustomed happy meetings and rounds of festivities. Those lying on a bed of sickness we sincerely sympathise with, whilst we wish those only recently recovered from a trying illness the compliments of the season, and trust that, as in the case of Mrs Davies, of 12, North Clarendon-street, South Melbourne, they will be enabled to spend a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Mrs Davis for five years was a great sufferer, her chief complaint being severe indigestion and swellings in various parts of the body and limbs. She became an out-patient of the Melbourne Hospital, but receiving no benefit she visited the Homoeopathic Hospital on the St. Kilda Road. But no relief was obtained, and her health went from bad to worse. Besides prescribing for her the doctors advised her to discontinue drinking tea, but she retained the same, no relief resulting.

'I have walked the floor,' said Mrs Davis, 'night after night with the pain, and could obtain no rest. My agony was very great at times, and weakness almost prevented me from continuing my work. At this stage Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People were brought under my notice.

I procured a box, for I seemed to have an impression that they would do me good. When making the purchase the chemist tried to induce me to buy some other kind of medicine, but I would have nothing but the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

'After the first box I improved wonderfully, and was able once more to resume my work, and I have now taken two boxes and a half. My work consists principally of washing, and this I am able to do, and life is once more enjoyable.'

Another lady, Mrs Dunn, who lives opposite, here called in to see Mrs Davis, and to her she appealed to ratify her statements.

'Yes,' remarked Mrs Dunn, 'I have seen the poor thing doubled up with pain, and suffering the greatest agony for days together, and we all thought she was going into consumption.'

'And now,' replied Mrs Davis, 'I am—well, "a new woman," and all the neighbours and those for whom I work can tell you the same. Owing to my having to go about so much I am well known, and the difference between my previous condition and what it is now can be proved by dozens of people; and mind, nothing else has done me any good but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.'

'And what do you think of the pills, Mrs Dunn?' asked our representative.

'Well, I have nearly as much reason to be thankful for them as Mrs Davis has. I was not at all well when she was suffering, and I also tried them with the greatest success. My daughter has just as great faith in them as I have myself. Where she is employed the girls tried to get her to take some other medicine, as she was not well, feeling out of sorts, and being languid and cold of a morning, but she would take nothing but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and now she is quite well and cheerful again.'

Mrs Davis here remarked that all women ought to take these pills.

'Yes,' said Mrs Dunn, 'and men too. Look at my husband. Some time ago he became very much depressed in spirits, and got into a 'desponding mood.' He had three bottles of medicine from the doctor, but it did not do him as much good as a bottle of stout would have done. He got worse, and I advised him to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. He had got very bad and we thought he was dying. Eventually, he commenced to take the pills, and after three boxes he was a new man; in fact, he was thoroughly cured. I think it only right that these things should be made known for the good of others, for I think that the pills are the grandest remedy I ever heard of.'

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have a remarkable efficacy in curing diseases arising from an impoverished condition of the blood or an impairment of the nervous system, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus' dance, nervous headache, nervous prostration, and the tired feeling arising therefrom, the after-effects of la grippe, influenza, and severe colds, diseases depending on humours in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give a healthy glow to pale and sallow complexions, and are a specific for troubles peculiar to the female system, and in the case of men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork and excesses of any nature.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper (printed in red ink). See that each box is encircled by a blue warning label.

These pills are not a purgative. They are genuine only with the full name—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People—and are sold by all chemists and by Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Wellington, N.Z., who will forward (post paid) on receipt of stamps or post order, one box for 3s, or half-dozen for 15s 9d.
