tried highly. Grand Repids, as far as appearance is encorred, is a much inproved horse since he was last seen in public, and, all going well during the next ten days, he will not fail for want of condition. Lolah is also dong well. Although Buspipes has also dong well. Although Buspipes has been left in the Great Anuma doing fairly good work, and Siepdaneer has never gone better than at present.

Without comment, the race promiaes to result in a match between Mr Stead and Sir Geo. Uliford, and if Silkworm and Golden Lily are both well we need look no further for the winner. Golden Lily is said to have developed into a grand filly.

The weights for the minor events to be decided on the first day of the Canterbury Jockey Club's Autumn Meeting made their appearance yeaterday. I shall have ampie opportunity to make my final selections after the closing of the acceptances. In the meautime I may say that I like Huku and Zeelows beat of those in the Kildare Hurdle Race, and that I think Bagpipes might bare had a few pounds less in the Suckburn Handicap, in which I fancy Delaway and Stephancer. Ostiak, Blackstone and Count of Kolmar are well treated in the Epsom Weiter Handicap, while unless Signalman is a good coit, the Yaldnurst two-year-olds might between them account for the Russley Plate.

CHRISTCHURCH. Tuesday

CHRISTCHURCH, Tuesday.

The news of Moifas's victory in the Livespool Grand National Steeplechase caused great rejoicings in local sporting circles. Personally, I must confess to having been among those who thought Mr Golian had made a bad bargain when he bought Natator's son, who, I thought, and passed the age when he could be funght to jump in English style; but I was wrong, and nobody is better pleased at the fact than I are.

After three or four lovely days the weather broke on Sunday night, and training operations yesterday morning were conducted in rain. The rain will do no harm to the tracks, and unless a great deal more falls the course ought to be in grand order for the meeting.

for the meeting.

Most of the local candidates for the principal handicaps are doing well. Welbeck was lame after working on Friday morning, but he quickly threw off the soreness, and is now apparently sound. He has tightened up and is improving generally, but I cannot believe that he will be ready by Mondeyr to meet sensoued horses on equal terms.

Quarryman was also lame, but the seroness was only temporary. He is very well—probably better than he has hern at any time in his life, and he is bound to run a good horse to the Easter Handlang. Cannie Chiel is also very well, and if the going should beapen to be heavy on Monday there are more nullikely things than that he will win. One thing is certain, and that is that he will beat Brave Heart.

Lolah is doing well, but I don't fancy her chance; and Lady Lillau, like Welbeck, cannot be sufficiently forward to meet thoroughly trained horses with a grospect of beating them.

prospect of beating them.

De la Rey is pretty well, and Stepdancer was never better in her life. This exhausts the list of Ricearton horses engaged in both excell.

Of the visiting division only Petrovan, Full Cry, and Kremita have arrived at the time of writing. All three look well, and the last-anned may wha race at the meeting, although it will not be the Easter Handleap, the distance of which is a little too far for blue.

dences of an early brenkup were visible to all his lordship's friends.

At a very early period in life Lord Allagons showed his love for the sport with which he afterwards became so intimately associated. As a mere boy he ran horses under an assumed name, and in his 24th year won the Champane Stakes with Humphrey. This was his first notable success, and in the following year (1850) he was elected to the Jockey Chib. His next word Stakes with Eicho.
