

GOOD WATCHES OR £6 10s.

In "as Good as Gold" Cases.

THE MEANING OF THE TERM GOLD-FILLED.

Gold-filled watch cases are intended as a substitute for solid gold, not only in appearance, but in wear. A solid gold watch case is valued for its beauty, for the gold look about it. The beauty and the gold-look are entirely on the surface. The gold hidden away in the thickness of the case adds nothing to its beauty, but does add greatly to its cost. To make a gold-filled watch case, an ingot of metal is placed between two ingots of solid 14-carat gold, and the three are then rolled flat, forming a solid sheet with a thick outside of solid gold and a centre of metal. Men who cannot afford to buy a gold watch, and men who can afford to, but do not care to run the risk of losing such a valuable article, are recommended to consider the advantages attached to buying one of these gold-filled watches.

This is the Watch.

The works are made specially for us by the Waltham Watch Co., and is guaranteed a correct timekeeper. It has jewels in all the required actions, and a Breguet hairspring to counteract the effects of sudden jars caused by violent exercise of any description. We send this watch free by post on receipt of remittance.
