

HUTS CONSTRUCTED (AND LIVED IN FOR SEVEN MONTHS) ON DISAPPOINTMENT ISLAND BY SHIPWRECKED SAILORS OF THE DUNDONALD. NORTH-WEST CAPE, AUCKLAND ISLANDS, IS SEEN IN DISTANCE.

Photos. by Canterbury Philosophical Institute Scientific Expedition.

VIEW OF THE LANDING PLACE, DISAPPOINTMENT ISLAND.

In foreground is seen the frame of the fragile boat in which three men went to Auckland Islands, in search of the Depot, and safely made the return voyage. Chas. Eyre, one of the survivors, is on the left and another, John Gratton, on the right.

A TERRIBLE TALE OF THE SEA: THE WRECK OF THE DUNDONALD.