

A GROUP OUT OF THE 500 IMMIGRANTS WHO WERE BROUGHT TO NEW ZEALAND BY THE BIG LINER.

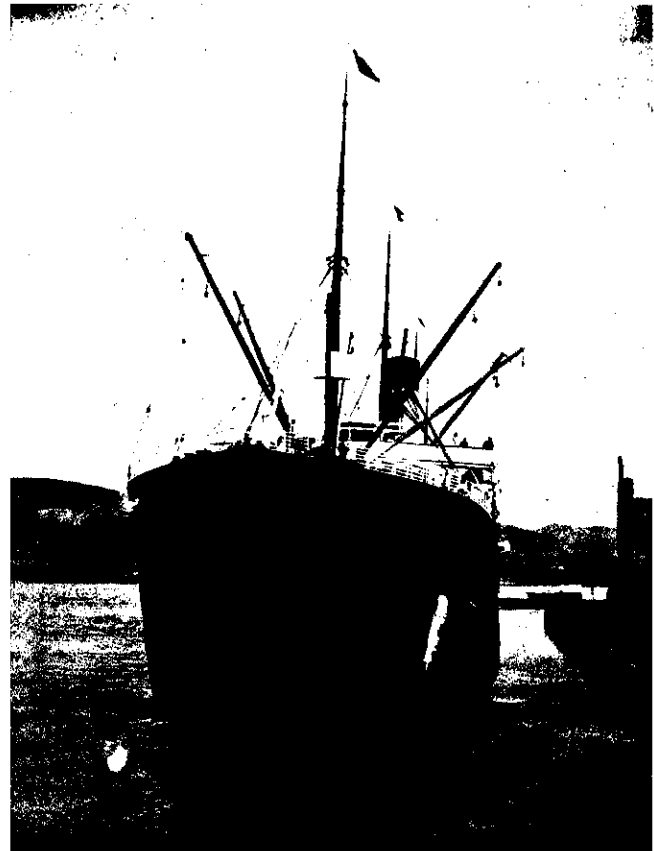

ALONGSIDE THE QUEEN'S WHARF, WELLINGTON. The Corinthia's gangway drawn up and passengers waiting on board.

ST. MARY'S NEW ORGAN.

The new organ at St. Mary's pro-Cathedral, Parnell, was formally opened on Thursday night, when a dedication service was held. Bishop Seligson gave an address, and a recital by Dr. Thomas displayed the quality of the new instrument.

Zick, photo. QUARANTINED.

When the White Star liner Corinthia arrived in Wellington on Monday last week, the medical officer found it necessary to quarantine forty-three persons on Somes Island, owing to the presence of scarlet fever and measles among the passengers. The scarlet fever patients were removed to the hospital. Owing to there being sickness on board the usual rush of people aboard which usually occurs on the mooring of a vessel was prevented. The Corinthia brought 500 immigrants to New Zealand.

THE LAST PENGUIN VICTIM.

The remains of Mr. H. G. Underwood, who was drowned in the wreck of the Penguin, were discovered at Titahi Bay on the 21st inst. Mr. Underwood had resided in Wellington for 47 years, but was a native of London. He was a well-known builder. The funeral was followed by a large number of deceased's friends.

THE NEW PUMPING STATION FOR THE ONEHUNGA WATERWORKS.

The machinery last week underwent a complete test, and will now be taken over by the Borough.