FOR A SHORT TIME AT HALF PRICE.

A Remarkable Offer

BY

THE NEW ZEALAND TIMES.

"The Library of Famous Literature," issued by The Standard, in London, under the editorship of Dr. Richard Garnett, C.B., was the great success of the year. Under the remarkable offer made by The Standard, subscriptions were booked for nearly 20,000 sets, involving a total of nearly 400,000 volumes. It is to be doubted if such a sale was ever before known in England.

The New Zealand Times is now able to offer the work to the New Zealand public upon terms as favourable as those so cordially welcomed by the British public. Not only is the half-price offer now extended to New Zealand, but the terms of easy monthly payments, are for the first time available here. In addition to these advantages, free delivery is granted as far as Wellington, thus saving the purchaser the expense and delay of ordering from London.

The Offer is Limited.

No guarantee, however, can be given that any orders except those sent in promptly can be accepted on those terms, if accepted at all. The number of copies received for New Zealand is strictly limited, and when these have been subscribed for no more can be purchased for except from London, and at the original published prices—about double the prices now offered. All subscriptions will be booked in the order received. Any orders received too late for acceptance will be returned, with accompanying remittance to the sender.

An Unprecedented Opportunity.

"The Library of Famous Literature" is not issued in parts nor by single volumes, but only in complete sets. The work is ready for delivery, and to those who subscribe now the New Zealand Times offers the Library at a reduction of one-half the regular prices hereafter to prevail, and upon the most liberal terms. The entire twenty volumes will be sent all at one time upon the preliminary payment of 10s. The purchase of the work is to be completed in small monthly payments according to the style of bindings chosen.

A Real University.

Indeed, since all has here been sifted and sifted, one might in the course of the world's literature that from years of a season's study, acquire a firmer grasp of desultory reading, or even from an extended College education. It seems as if one might plan out endless courses of reading for one's leisure hours, and in truth, delve endlessly without exhausting this vast mine. "The Library of Famous Literature" is, as it were, an University not merely for the years of adolescence, but one which you may attend with pleasure and profit a whole life long.

AN INTERESTING LETTER

From Sir ROBERT STOUT, K.C.M.G.,
Chief Justice of New Zealand.

Judge's Chambers.

WELLINGTON

8th August 1901.

I cordially commend to the attention of my fellow colonists "The International Library of Famous Literature." Its twenty volumes contain extracts from all the great writers from Homer to our own day. The literature of every nation has been laid under contribution by the compilers of the work Greek, Latin, Russian, French, German, Dutch, Norse, Hungarian, Spanish etc. etc. authors are quoted as well as English and American. The popular authors of to-day have not been ignored. The work is thus a library in itself and should be of great service especially to our small country libraries and to those who desire to get acquainted with literature without being under the necessity of purchasing many hundreds of volumes. If these 20 volumes are perused the reader will obtain an acquaintance with general literature. I would like to see the library in every country settler's home.

The work is excellently printed, well bound, and beautifully illustrated. It has two indexes so that the reader may easily select his author or topic. It is just the work for those who not having a large library wish to enjoy the pleasure that literature affords. Considering that the work contains this price is cheap indeed.

Robert Stout

What these 20 Volumes Contain.

THE LIBRARY OF FAMOUS LITERATURE is precisely what it indicates—a vast gathering of the finest and most interesting pieces of literature, from the dawn of civilisation down to and including the authors of our own day—this is to say from the old Babylonian story of Ishtar and the quaint Egyptian tale of Two Brothers, the most ancient piece of literature extant, to the best work of living writers, like Tolstol, Hardy, Swinburne, Mark Twain, or Kipling. It contains everything; the great classics like the Iliad and the Odyssey; wonderful stories like the great Bharata (the Mahabharata of the Ancient Hindus); poetry and stories from every people who ever lived and sung; the best of history, from writers like Mommsen and Curcio, Freeman and Froude, Gibbon and Green; tales of adventure and stories of wild life; the pith of the great philosophers like Hobbs and Locke and Hume and Spenser; fascinating chapters of science from writers like Huxley and Darwin and Proctor; letters from famous writers of letters; oratorical masterpieces from Demosthenes and Cicero to John Bright and Gladstone; choice pages from the intimate thoughts of diarists like Amiel and Samuel Pepps; epigrams and maxims from men like La Rochefoucauld and Dean Swift; philosophical reflections from writers like Rosseau and Pascal; religious writings like those of Cardinal Newman, Thomas a Kempis, and Dean Farrar; biting sarcasm from a Heine or an Ibsen; pathos and humour from writers like Charles Lamb, Bret Harte, or Oliver Wendell Holmes; fables from La Fontaine; autobiographies like Benjamin Franklin's; in fine, the whole gamut of literary production, from grave to gay, from the deepest questions that concern the human soul to the lightest jests of a Horace, a Sterne, a Rabelais, or a Max O'Reil.

10,000 Choice Pages.

Indeed, of the vast scope of the Library it is next to impossible to convey an adequate idea. It is complete in twenty handsomely bound volumes of royal octavo size, and the subscriber has the choice of four different styles of binding, at varying prices. It is printed on an especially light paper, made for the work, easy to hold and delightful to read. The twenty volumes comprise 10,000 pages of the best literature of the world, printed in large clear type, likewise made especially for this work.

Vast Range of Subjects.

There are two great indexes, one general, entries, the other topical, comprising 10,000 and rendering every page and almost every paragraph of the Library instantly accessible. Though primarily a Library of the best reading, it thus becomes an admirable work for reference as well.

To sum up, it may be fairly said that this great and novel work really achieves its avowed purpose. It takes the place of uncounted shelves of scattered volumes, and puts the reader in instant possession of the best which has ever been written since books began to be made.

"It is, as 'The Bookman' so tersely described it, 'infinite riches in a little room.'"
