Dear Bee.

At last Saturday's meeting of the Waiohiki Golf Club, though the wea-ther was most unpropitious in the morning, there was a good attend-ance, and some very interesting play in the ladies' foursomes. The scoring on the whole was higher than usual.

Mrs. Jardine and Miss Mary McLean mars first with 98-20, 78; Mrs. C. were first with 98-20, 78; Mrs. C. Cato and Mrs. A. Kennedy with 91-12, 79, came in second; and Misses M. and L. Davies, 95-13, 83, were third. The men's course was unplayable, as four of their greens were covered with water, so their match for the captains trophy was postponed. Tea was provided by Mrs. Herrold, who looked well in a grey tweed cost and skirt and a sailor hat: Mrs. Donnelly wore a black dress, a sable cape and a large black hat: Mrs. C. Cato had a a large black hat; Mrs. C. Cato had a stylish grey dress, and a Panama straw hat; Miss Page wore a black jacket, dark skirt and fur boa; Mrs. Jardine was in black. Most of the players wore red and gold, the col-ours of the alub ours of the club.

WELLINGTON.

June 26.

Dear Bea,

How little we thought, a few days back, what sad and painfully sudden news Wednesday would bring us! The serious illness of His Majesty the King has cast a depressing gloom over the whole community, coming so unexpectedly after the news of his apparent recovery. Crowds of people await each piece of latest inma apparent record procession of latest in-formation outside the newspaper offices. Of course, all festivities are cancelled, also the ball at Govern-ment House, which was to have been held to morrow night, and the Becep-tion there on Tuesday. The only ar-rangements which were carried on were the school-children's treats and dinners to the poor, as this was His Majesty's expressed wish.

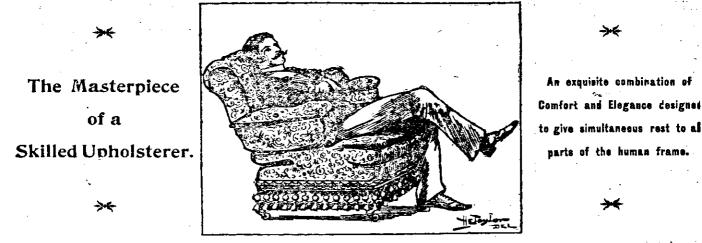

It was a sad piece of news to greet the returned troopers of the Seventh Contingent with yesterday. The troopship Manila arrived in the bar-The bour at about half-past twelve, and the Contingent was landed immediately after being passed by the Health Officer. The troopers were enthusi-astically welcomed with cheers, and were afterwards entertained at a lupcheon by the Ministry in the Drill Shed. His Excellency the Governor presided, Major Johnston (in combit and of the Contingent) being on am-left. Others who were present were Sir J. G. Ward, Mr Aitken (Mayor), General Babington and his A.D.C. Captain Campbell, Major Moore, and beetri memors of rathament, the health of the King was proposed by Lord Ranturly, who made a short speech, referring briefly to the sor-rowful news of our Sovereign's ill-ness, which they had received but a few hours before. The toast was honfew hours before. The toast was hon-oured enthusiastically, and the Na-tional Anthem was sung. Sir Joseph Ward proposed "His Excellency the Governor," and also "The Seventh Contingent," and Captain Johnston modulation the Interv in a very brief replied to the latter in a very brief speech. The troopers seem very bright and well, and are full of their adventures. There are two invalids among them, but they were carried into the Drill Shed and were able to take nart in the festivities there.

The Misses Harding gave a very pleasant afternoon "At Home" to a number of their girl friends last Friday. Unfortunately it turned out a horribly windy, wet day, but in spite

THE EASIEST CHAIR IN THE WORLD.

EXTRACT FROM "AUCKLAND STAR," NOVEMBER 19th, 1901.

"An armchair, which for ease and comfort may fairly be said to surpass anything of its kind, has been put in the market by Resers. Smith & Caughey. The chair, which has been patented, is the invention of Mr. W. Aggers, of this city. Its external appearance is that of an ordinary armchair, but by an ingenious arrangement of springs, the new invention is made as comfortable as one could desire. The seat, back, and arms are all fitted with springs, which yield to every motion of the sitter, absolute case being thus active. The state back, and arms are an interface while springs, which yield overly induced in a state in a state of a state back and see arguments of a state of a s
