UNITY OF PURPOSE.

But—and here we reach the central idea of Mr Wella's Imperialism—the Empire has a common medium of expression, a unity of liberal and tolerant purpose amidst its enormous variety of localised life and colour. He says:

"It is in the development and strengthening, the enrichment, the rendering

"It is in the development and strength-ening, the enrichment, the rendering more conscious and more purposeful, of that broad creative spirit of the British that the true cement and continuance of our Empire is to be found. The Em-pire must live by the forces that begat it."

pire must live by the forces that begat it."

What is wanted, according to our author, is the cement of thought and apirit. The Empire must become the universal educator, newsagent, book-distributor, civiliser-general, and vehicle of imaginative inspiration for its peoples. "The effort and arrangement needed to make books, facilities for research, and all forms of art accessible throughout the Empire, would be altogether trivial in proportion to the consolidation it would effect.

But Mr Wells waxes very contemptuous about his fellow countrymen. They do not understand these things, he says. Their Empire was made for them by their exceptional and outcast men; it has "happened to them as fresh lettuces come to tame rabbits." They do not understand how they got it, and he fears they will not understand how to keep it. "They are provincials mocked by a world-wide opportunity, the stupid legatees of a great generation of exiles."

OUR IMPERIAL OPPORTUNITY.

OUR IMPERIAL OPPORTUNITY.
"Mostly," he concludes, "they call themselves Imperialists, which is just their harmless way of expressing their satisfaction with things as they are. In practice their Imperialism resolves itself into a vigorous resistance to taxation and an ill-concealed hostility to education. It matters nothing to them that the whole next generation of Canadians has drawn its ideas mainly from American publications, that India and Egypt, in despite of sounder mental nourishment, have developed their own vernacular Press, that Australia and New Zealand even now gravitate to America for books and thought. It matters nothing to them that the poverty and insularity books and thought. It matters nothing to them that the poverty and insularity of our intellectual life has turned American art to France and Italy, and the American universities towards Germany. The slow starvation and decline of our philosophy and science, the decadence of British inventions and entarprise, troubles them not at all, because they fail to connect it with the tangible facts of empire. The world cannot white for the English. And the sands of our Imperial opportunity twirl through the neck of the hour glass?

Hair.

Men have so few beauty doctors that Men have so few beauty doctors that they should be especially grateful for the instructions given by Homer Croy on the manipulation of their hair. Leaving out of account those males, who have got to the stage of using a huckaback towel for parting their scanty locks, Mr. Croy considers the needs of others with paintaking thoughtulness:

parting their scanty locks, Mr. Croy considers the needs of others with painstaking thoughtulness:

Men with low, squatting forcheads should not pull their bair down over their brows, and men whose forcheads are beginning to work back should invite their locks down. If your hair has quietly slipped down toward your cars on each side, leave it there. If you bring it up in strings and wisps it will merely lock like climbing vines, and will never really have the free-and easy, bomelike appearance that ought to be the part of all natural hair.

Do not part your hair any earlier than you can help. Hair is in a hurry these days, anyway. Caually it doesn't stay more than long enough to make sure that the baby is going to be a bay before it hastens off. It will part of itself soon mongh, the best you can do.

Before combing your hair you should get acquaintted with the architecture of your face. If your face is of the harvest moon variety, do not inlay your hair. Puff it up as much as possible. It's better to look like a feather duster on a Monday morning than a scratched billiard ball on a Saturday night.

But if your face is a long galloping ensemble, do not encourage your hair to fluff. If your head inclines to run up to a cone, do not epread your hair sound: In smitation of a palm-tree thatch; rather fluff it up and winrow it for fear some unlived person will begin to talk about spring radials tops.

Geething. trouble banished by SCOTT'S Emulsion

in a case which seemed almost hopeless. Mrs. Lillie Austin, Coledale, N.S.W., writes (28th Feb., '10) that:

VA few months ago my little son was very ill with gastritis and teething troubles, and we thought he would die. He was so weak and thin that he had to be carried on a pillow. Advised to try Scott's Emulsion, we did so, with wonderful results. The gastritis is now a thing of the past, he has cut four teeth without trouble, and is gaining lesh every day. Scott's Emulsion aved his life."

Aiding life year in, year out, Scott's Emulsion is the only emulsion with a reputation in all parts of the world for curing teething trouble and gastritis. Taken in good time, Scott's Emulsion prevents such troubles altogether. Ask your doctor about the reputation and record of Scott's Emulsion. No emulsion bought instead of Scott's, can give you the proof, which Scott's provides by world-wide testimony. This CERTAINTY should be worth to you many times the price of Scott's Emulsion. Therefore, do not ask-for "emulsion"—ask for SCOTT'S EMULSION.
