THE RESULT OF RECORD SNOWFALLS IN ENGLAND

The cables report that the snowfalls in parts of Great Britain during January have been unparalleled, and many villages, especially in the Peak district (Derbyshire), have been cut off from communication with the outside world. The snow was accompanied by a terrible blizzard, many lives being lost, while wrecks round the coast were numerous. Last month, too, the snow was deep in many parts of England, and, as our illustrations show, Alpine sports, such as skiing, tobogganing, etc., were indulged in.
