Mr. Hamilton-Stewart.

for Australia she played with Mrs Langtry in "The Regenerates."

Mr J. B. Atholwood is an Australian actor, a pupil of the veteran William Hosking, and trained in the good school of William Holloway. He is of the band of youngsters who played in the 'eighties with Essie Jenyns. Richard Stewart (now Mr Williamson's business manager) was another, and they have all done well. Mr Atholwood is one of the best character actors the colonial stage has ever seen, and for the last five years he has filled that post with Mr Williamson. He was in New Zealand with the "Sign of the Cross," with Nance O'Neill, Wilson Barrett, and was also a member of Mr George Darrell's "Sunny South" Company. He has numberless triumphs before him.

Mr Hamilton-Stewart, also a member of the "Ben Hur" Company, is a young actor of great promise, who has evinced a decided talent for "villainy," in which he
