

The famous well of St. Keyne, near Liskeard. "Its waters possess a remarkable property," says Fuller, "for, whether husband or wife come first to drink thereof, they get the mastery." Above it grow three venerable ash trees, a witch elm, and a hoary oak.