AUSTRALIAN HORSES IN ENGLAND.

LATEST advises from Australia convey the intelligence that Mr W. R. Wilson, the proprietor of the well-known St. Albans Stud, has decided that the Oakleigh Plate and Futurity Stakes winner, Resolute (by Trenton—Umilta), and the Newmarket Handicap winner, Amiable (by Lochiel—Affection), the latter, by the way, a recent purchase by the St. Albans squire, shall accompany the Melbourne Cup winner of 1894 (Patron, by Grand Flaneur—Olga) to England. Whether Resolute and Amiable are destined for racing purposes we know not, but certain it is that Patron's mission is stud duty only. But should Resolute never race one yard in England, he should prove a success at the stud, as, in addition to being a son of grand old Trenton, his dam (Umilta) is a full sister to that sterling good horse Correze, being by Newminster (The Marquis—Spa) from Ouida, a full sister to our own old favorite Lady Emma, and other good ones. Amiable's mission may be to race, and, afterwards, to visit a favorite stallion to breed to Australian time. Be their destinies as they may, of one thing we can all feel assured that no such brilliant trio ever left Australia's shores for England as the animals herein mentioned. Breeders south of the Line are at present represented in the training stables of the Old Country by some very brilliant and high-bred animals, to say nothing of the horses now used there for stud purposes. In the first line will be found Merman (Grand Flaneur—Seaweed), Newhaven (Newminster—Ocean), Maluma (Malua—Madcap), Aurum (Trenton—Aura), Paris III. (Grandmaster—Enone), Form (Cranbrook—Trafalgar), Georgic (Clan Stuart—Mirzapore), Ebor (Robert the Devil—Helen), Norton (Ascot—Romp), Survivor (Lochiel—Mavourneen), Old Clo' (Lochiel—Tatters), Tornado (by Cadogan), Coronation (by Little Bernie), Acmena (Martini—Henry—Acme), Essex (Sweet William—Queen of the Forest), Erl King, Bombshell II., and many others. In the famous studs in England we cannot include Carnage, for he is now in foreign lands, but we have Carbine (Musket—Mersey), Trenton (Musket—Frailty), Lerdorberg (Newminster—Novlette, who is, by the way, full-sister to the dam of Resolute), Chainshot (Musket—Locket), Carbonado (Hotchkiss—Onyx), Mosquetaire (Nordenfeldt—Frailty), Sternchaser (Nordenfeldt—Crinolone), Ponomou (Newminster—Beryl), and many others of lesser note. Now, of these, Carbine, Carnage, Trenton, Chainshot, Carbonado, Mosquetaire, and Sternchaser, in the stallion class, are New Zealand bred; whilst, in the racing class, only Bombshell and Norton were bred here, but, looking at the other side of the picture, this famous horse producing land of ours is responsible for the sire or dam of the following:—Aurum, Resolute, Amiable, Survivor, Old Clo', Tornado, and Acmena, whilst Little Bernie (sire of Coronation) is by the New Zealand-bred Cheviot. It appears to us that if Australian breeders, who use the progeny of our famous lines, can establish a trade with England, profitable to themselves, surely our own studmasters are capable of doing the same. There seems, however, to be a lack of enthusiasm amongst our breeders upon the subject, and this lack of enthusiasm on their part means the accumulation of great wealth for Australian studmasters, who are headed by the enterprising and level-headed proprietor of St. Albans. That our folk are asleep in this matter is but too apparent, and we much regret to have to make this statement, as we are well aware that, in addition to having the best blood in the world at our disposal and, also, country highly suited to the breeding of the thoroughbred, we have men with brains, pluck, and money. It seems unexplainable why such a state of affairs should exist. In years gone by, American breeders came to these shores and took away with them such horses as Darebin—we claim him for New Zealand—the brothers Sir Modred, Cheviot, Idalium, and July, also the flying Maxim, and others too numerous to write about. When once established, this trade should not have been allowed to die out, and we hope to find our breeders coming once more into the breach, and, by their action, placing the New Zealand-bred horses in the position they should be, viz., the foremost in the Southern Hemisphere.

Sporting Topics.

The many friends—sporting and otherwise—of our cross-country rider, Sam Fergus, will regret to hear that he has been suffering very severely through an injury received whilst riding the grey gelding, Voltigeur II., in the Steeplechase, won by Miss Nelson, at the recent Takapuna Jockey Club Meeting. It will be remembered that in the race mentioned the grey took a dislike to the water jump, and although Fergus, by daring horsemanship, got him over, it was by severely injuring himself. We are pleased, however, to be able to inform our readers and the sporting public generally that St. Simon's old pilot is gradually getting back to form, and that he may be seen on the back of The Sinner within the next few weeks.

In America this season a bay gelding named Presbyterian has been winning in great style, his latest victory being in the Crescent City Derby. Presbyterian's breeding cannot be otherwise than interesting to New Zealand sportsmen. He is by Prestonpans from Dareka, by Darebin from Katrine, by Mortemer. Prestonpans is by Prince Charlie (sire of the mighty Lochiel) from Beatrice, by Voltigeur from Bribery; by The Libel from Splitcote. Dareka's sire, Darebin, is, as almost everyone knows by the Peer from Lurline, by Truducer from Mermaid. Truducer's sire was The Libel, whose name will be seen above as the sire of Bribery. The success of these lines of blood cannot fail to give satisfaction both in our own colony and also throughout Australia.

With the finish of the racing season at Ellerslie, the committee of the Auckland Racing Club lost no time in having alterations made on the course. Arrangements were entered into with Mr Pierce Lannigan, the well-known contractor, for putting down a brick culvert right across the course, with a view to better drainage. The work is already in hand, and Mr Lannigan is making every endeavour to execute his contract in double quick time. We understand other improvements are to follow.

In his comments upon judging at the different race meetings in England, "Man of the World" says: Mr W. J. Ford has probably given more "short head" verdicts than any other racing judge alive or dead; and this the writer states with great respect for Mr Ford and his work; but the late Mr Richard Johnson often quoted a much "nearer thing." It was at Epsom early in the century when a colt named Treasilian beat a filly called My Lady "by a nose!" And this recalls to memory a certain "gentleman" judge who officiated at a none too-well-managed hunt meeting. "The heads" laid odds on a horse that could only make a dead heat of it, and the man in the box promptly hoisted the double zero. In a moment the box was surrounded by an angry mob, threatening the judge with all sorts of violence if he didn't instantly take out the "00" and put up the favorite's number. In a tight corner and a dead funk, the gentleman replied—"All right, if you say it has won I'll give it the verdict, but—only by a very, very short head!" The betting on the next race was some what cramped.
