As an indication of the extent to which the railroads of America have been affected by the European war, it may be stated, says the "Railway Review," that table d'hote meals in all dining cars and eating stations on the railroads throughout the country now cost a minimum of 3s. each. The railroads have just entered into an agreement to this effect. While dining cars in which table d'hote meals are served are not numerous, thousands of railroad dining cars have been serving meals for 2s. Special trains have also served table d'hote meals for parties for less than 3s. On three of the roads West, the rate will be advanced from 4s. to 5s. Representatives of the railroads say dining car service on every first-class road is a losing proposition, but that it must be maintained. Meals a la carte will be served in all dining cars as usual.
