The Central Hotel, Cambridge, opposite the Post Office, offers special facilities to the commercial and travelling public. Mrs. W. J. Brown is a popular hostess, and the house is fitted up with the latest improvements, the sanitary arrangements having been made on the most modern principle. A spacious balcony enables one to secure a very comprehensive view of the township and surrounding district. Cambridge has attained a wide degree of popularity as a tourist resort—its beautiful domain and other scenic attractions appealing to a great number—and those of our readers who contemplate making the trip to this favourite railway township will find that the Central Hotel ranks among the best and most popular hostleries in the Waikato.

Visitors to the pretty little township of Ngaruawahia can spend a pleasant time boating, shooting, etc., and can be well assured of temporal comforts by residing at the Delta Hotel, under the proprietorship of mine host Mr. L. Dunn. This hotel, situated on the banks of the Waipa River, is comfortably furnished, and the outlook from the balcony is very pleasing. Extensive accommodation is provided for visitors and tourists, while the cuisine is all that can be desired. Cozy drawing and sitting-rooms are at the disposal of guests, the bedrooms being well ventilated and furnished. Mr. Dunn stocks nothing but the best liquors, and we feel assured that visitors staying at the Delta Hotel will receive every civility and comfort from the popular host.

Most light delivery propositions are under-powered. They stall on hills and can't pull capacity loads on grades. The Rush has the most powerful engine ever put in a light truck. Much complaint is heard about inadequate cooling. The Rush has a really ample and efficient cooling system. Many cases of rear axle breakage are reported—the result of using pleasure car axles. The Rush has a rear axle specially designed and built by us for this work. It has never been known to break. Many frames are woefully weak. The Rush frame is strong and flexible and absorbs minor road shocks. Springs are often too light for the purpose. Rush springs are heavier than ordinary, have more leaves and are reinforced by pneumatic shock absorbers. The most fragile loads can ride in safety.
