IF Crossley products are preferred by Government departments to any others the conclusion is that they are better than any others. That is, at any rate, the logical conclusion, is it not? For Governments retain the services of expert and experienced engineers--men of proved ability. They possess the foresight to see that that which in the long run is the most efficient is at the time of purchase the most economical. Governments bought largely from Crossley's in Peace times when Crossley's were able to supply them. Those in control now entrust work of the utmost importance to Crossley's. Crossley's gas engine, with its world-wide reputation, has paved the way for other Crossley channels of activity, and that is why the Crossley Motor Car is announced for after the War. It will be a motor car of quality, and those who know Crossley's, or will take the trouble to find out about them, will wait for it. They will realise what a super-excellent car it will be, for behind it is the manufacturing experience of over sixty years.
