Marriage.—Regulation No. 324.

Members of the Force making inquiries in accordance with Regulation 324 and Circular No. 3/1935 should be guided by the circumstances of each particular case, and endeavour to avoid causing any unnecessary embarrassment to the person the subject of inquiry. If the lady is well and favourably known to responsible members of the Force or other reliable persons, it should not be necessary to approach her late or present employer. It is important nevertheless that in every case the inquiry must be adequate, but unnecessary offence can often be avoided by the manner in which the inquiries are made.
