NEW ZEALAND POLICE GAZETTE.

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

WELLINGTON, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1930.

NOTICE.—For instructions as to the manner in which reports are required to be furnished for the compilation of the Police Gazette see Gazette No. 1 of this year.

The arrest of offenders described in the Police Gazette, or respecting whom crime reports have been forwarded for insertion in the Gazette, should be promptly notified by the members of the Force effecting the arrest.

When notifying the arrest of persons charged with theft, or suspected of theft, it should be stated whether the property stolen, or any portion of it, has been recovered.

A description of property supposed to be stolen, found in the possession of offenders, for which owners cannot be found, shall be furnished for insertion in the Gazette.

All communications concerning this Gazette should be addressed to the Commissioner of Police, Wellington, and the envelope marked "For Gazette." Members of the Force in charge of out-stations will forward them DIRECT.

Memorandum.]

Prisoners' Photographs.

Endeavour is being made to obtain uniformity, as far as possible, in all prisoners' photographs taken in the Dominion.

Photographers are requested to place two horizontal lines, in pencil or ink, on the rough side of the focussing screen of the cameras used for this purpose. These lines are to be exactly $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. apart. When prisoners are being photographed they are to be focussed so that the head is between these lines (top of head touching one line and the chin touching the other without overlapping).

Quarter-plate prints taken from these negatives are to show a space of $\frac{1}{2}$ in. between top of head and edge of paper, and to be printed on Rajah, Velox, or similar gaslight paper giving black and white results.

It is recommended that photographic plates or films with a speed number of about 350 should be used.

Uniform grey backgrounds have been supplied to the police at the principal towns where prisoners are photographed. These are to be kept where most convenient, and every care taken to protect them from damage. They are to be carefully rolled up when not in use, and are to be taken on charge.

The photographs of both front and side-face must be printed on one piece of quarter-plate paper and not on separate pieces. (Should it be found necessary to bring the two views closer, the unnecessary portion should be cut from the negative.)

Any photographs received that do not conform to the requirements of this Department may be returned and payment suspended.

To prevent unnecessary duplications the property-sheets of offenders who have been photographed and then escorted by the Police to other districts are to be endorsed in red ink "Photographed at [Place] on [Date]."

These instructions are in addition to those appearing on page 679 of 1919 Police Gazette.

W. G. WOHLMANN, Commissioner of Police.

Wellington, 13th November, 1930. (C.R. 18/55.)

Forgery of Letter of Credit.

The Wellington branch of the Union Bank of Australia, Limited, has received from the London office of the Bankers Trust Company notice that a Circular Letter of Credit, No. 67277, issued by the Bankers Trust Company on its New York office on the 26th May, 1930, for 2,000 dollars in favour of Simon Mayers, and expiring on the 30th September, 1930, with letter of indication 22806, has been fraudulently raised to 200,000 dollars. Payment has been stopped. In case of presentation it is requested that the holder of the letter of credit be kept under close surveillance, and this office informed by telegram.

Suspect: Simon Mayers, age about thirty, height about 5 ft. 8 in., powerful build, full face, dark flat hair, clean-shaven; slightly Jewish pleasant appearance; speaks English, German, and French. Was travelling with American and Luxemburg passports. Is probably a Belgian. May have Egyptian bank-notes with him. Is suspected of other forgeries. A specimen of his signature is filed in this office.

EXAMINATION PAPERS, 1930.

FOR THE RANK OF SUB-INSPECTOR.

EVIDENCE.

Time allowed: Three hours.

1. What is the difference between the relevancy of evidence and the admissibility of evidence?
Give an illustration of a case where a fact may be relevant to the issue but not admissible.
2. State the provisions of the Evidence Act, 1908, with regard to the rejection of a confession tendered in evidence against a prisoner.
State the rule laid down in Rex v. Kerr.

3. Occurrences similar to but unconnected with the facts in issue are irrelevant, except in certain cases. Discuss this statement, and say in that cases such occurrences are allowed to be proved.
4. Hearsay evidence is, with few exceptions, inadmissible in judicial investigations. Discuss this statement, and set out shortly the exceptions to the rule.
5. Distinguish between a dying declaration and a dying deposition, and state the procedure necessary before such evidence will be admitted in a criminal charge.
6. Under what circumstances can evidence be given of previous statements contradictory to those given by a witness at the hearing?
7. "A" is convicted of theft of a watch and a month later applies to the Court for a rehearing. What are the rules governing such an application, and what is the leading case on the subject?
8. Explain what is meant by (a) presumption from marriage; (b) presumption of regularity; (c) presumption of continued existence.
9. On what grounds can a witness claim that he is not bound to answer questions asked in cross-examination?
10. State what you know of four of the following cases: (a) The King v. Webb and McLaughlan; (b) The King v. Thompson; (c) Godfrey v. Godfrey; (d) Rex v. Wilson; (e) Rex v. Drake.

PREScribed STATUTES.

Time allowed: Three hours.

1. State shortly the provisions of the Police Offences Act dealing with (a) Sunday trading; (b) cruelty to animals; (c) the use of firearms by youths.
2. Enumerate the indictable offences which can be dealt with summarily by two or more Justices.
Within what time must a prosecution for such an offence be commenced?
3. Define "unlawful detention."
Assuming that a girl has been unlawfully detained, what procedure would you adopt to have her brought before the Court and dealt with?
4. Upon whom do the duties and liabilities imposed upon licensees by the Licensing Act fall in the case of—
(a) The death of a licensee?
(b) The marriage of a female licensee?
(c) When a licensee is mentally affected?
5. What is the effect of a "no license" vote being carried in a licensed district?
How are the rights of private persons residing in such a district affected?
Give examples.
6. State shortly the provisions of the Licensing Act, 1908, which deal with (a) the protection of property belonging to guests; (b) the liability of a licensee for the property of guests; (c) the conditions to be observed on the sale of a guest's property by a licensee.
7. Define "perjury," and draw an information charging "A" with this offence. Set out shortly the procedure and evidence necessary to be produced in order to establish a prima facie case against the accused.
8. State shortly the provisions of the Crimes Act, 1908, dealing with culpable homicide, and give examples of (a) justifiable homicide; (b) excusable homicide.
9. State shortly the provisions of the Gaming Act, 1908, and amendments dealing with (a) gaming-houses; (b) race-meetings.

10. What are the instructions laid down by circular in regard to the taking of finger-prints?

POLICE AND DETECTIVE DUTIES.

Time allowed: Three hours.

1. A motorist exceeds the speed-limit allowed by the Motor-vehicle Regulations. There is no evidence but that of speed. Discuss the position, and refer to a recent decision on the matter. If you consider an offence has been committed formulate a charge.
2. You are inquiring into an alleged fraud in the promotion of a company. It becomes necessary to trace a sum of money paid in cheques and banked. The bank refuses to give you any information. What is the procedure to obtain the necessary information?
It is also found necessary to inquire into the banking account of a person not a party to the proceedings. How would you proceed? Quote authority.
Has the identity of the parties to be proved?
3. You receive information that two boys aged respectively thirteen years and eleven years are being wilfully ill-treated by their stepmother. Their father is dead. The stepmother refuses to give you any information, or to allow you to see the children. What are your powers, and what would you do in the matter?
4. You are inspecting licensed premises preparatory to making your annual report to the Licensing Committee. What matters should you bear in mind when making your inspection, having due regard to the possibility of having to object to the renewal of any license on statutory grounds?
Would the report be sufficient for the Committee to adjudicate on?
5. A married woman living apart from her husband gives birth to a child seventeen months after co-habitation ceases. The child is subsequently committed to the care of the Education Department (Child Welfare Branch), who request the Police to make inquiries with a view of obtaining maintenance orders. The mother of the child admits having had intercourse with another man (C) after separation from her husband. How would you proceed with the inquiry to show the liability of—
(a) The husband of the mother of the child?
(b) The mother of the child?
(c) The other man (C)?
6. (a) What are the restrictions on the sale of liquor by chartered clubs; by whom may they be entered and inspected; and for what offences are they liable to have their charter revoked by the Minister?
(b) What information should be contained in the Inspector's report submitted annually for the information of the Minister?
7. There is an epidemic of burglaries in your city. What instructions would you give the night-duty section relative to keeping a lookout for suspects and vagrants, and also to a constable's powers regarding—
(a) Persons found by night under suspicious circumstances?
(b) Persons found on enclosed premises?
Quote authorities.
8. How would you distinguish between borderline cases of theft and false pretences?
Under what circumstances can a promise to do a thing in future be the subject of a charge of false pretences?
Quote authority.
9. (a) Under what circumstances does a servant of a licensee act within the scope of his authority?
(b) A disturbance takes place in an hotel at 11 p.m., and in course of investigation "A" is interviewed. He admits that he is a local resident, and was unlawfully on the hotel premises after hours, and was a witness to what occurred there. What offence, if any, has "A" committed?
10. What instructions are laid down in the Police Gazette with reference to—
(a) Aviation?
(b) Unclaimed bail-money?

ARITHMETIC.

Time allowed: Two hours and a half.

- Find the total amount of money paid in income-tax in 9 years on an annual income of £960, if the tax is at the rate of 8d. in the pound the first year, and rises 2d. in the pound each year up to 1s. 8d., and then remains steady.
- Reduce £4 17s. 3½d. to the decimal of a guinea to five places.
- A, B, and C enter into partnership. A advances £1,080 for 5 months, B £960 for 3 months, and C £1,120 for 6 months. They gain £992 altogether. Find the share of each.
- If 25 men do a certain amount of work in 14 days of 8 hours, in how many days will 7 men do $\frac{2}{3}$ of the work, working 10 hours a day?
- Find the simple interest on £2,970 16s. 8d. for 3 years 73 days at £3 2s. 6d. per cent.
- Find the value of 5 oz. 17 dwt. 12 gr. at £1 7s. 6d. per ounce.
- Multiply $4\frac{2}{3}$ of $6\frac{2}{3}$ of $\frac{2}{3}$ by $5\frac{1}{2}$ of $\frac{2}{3}$; and express $2\frac{3}{10}$ of 104 lb. as the decimal of a ton.
- Pipes A and B could fill a cistern in 3 minutes and 5 minutes respectively, and C could empty it in $7\frac{1}{2}$ minutes. In what time will the cistern be filled if A, B, and C are all turned on together?
- How much is gained or lost per cent. by buying oranges at 5 for 2d. and selling half of them at 2 a penny and half at 3 a penny?
- How long will it take a man to walk round a square field whose area is $5\frac{1}{2}$ acres at the rate of 5 miles an hour?

GEOGRAPHY.

Time allowed: One hour and a half.

- In the outline map of the South Island supplied to you accurately locate the following: Invercargill, Bluff, Riverton, Dunedin, Naseby, Port Chalmers, Balolutha, Taieri Plains, Milford Sound, Hokitika, Greymouth, Westport, Reefton, Kumara, Christchurch, Lyttelton, Arthur's Pass, Oira, Parnassus, Ward, Wharanui, Seddon, Picton, Blenheim, Nelson, Kaikoura, Akaroa, Queenstown, Kaitangata, Winton, Mosgiel, Kaiapoi, Havelock, Waimate, Geraldine, Fairlie, Cape Farewell, Cape Campbell, Cape Foulwind, Puysegur Point, Foveaux Strait, French Pass, Lake Ellesmere, Queen Charlotte Sound, Clarence River, Clutha River, Ashburton River, Rakaia River, Wairau River, Lake Tekapo, Lake Pukaki, Lake Ohau, Lake Wanaka, Lake Wakatipu, Mount Aspiring, Mount Cook, Franz Josef Glacier, Mount Sefton, Southern Alps Range, Mount Earnslaw.
- Indicate clearly on the map the track of the South Island Main Trunk Railway between Christchurch and Invercargill, and mark in ten principal intermediate stations.
- What are our chief exports and chief imports? At the present time which are in excess, and what is the effect upon the Dominion?
- What are, where are, and what do you know about the following: Winnipeg, Delhi, Adelaide, Port Darwin, Apia, Leeds, Rugby, Port Jarvis, Newcastle, Durban.
- Name the chief ports of call on a voyage from Wellington to London via the Suez Canal.

ENGLISH.

Time allowed: Three hours and a half.

- Write an essay of about 300 words on one of the following:
 - Inter-Empire Trade.
 - Any Heroic Character.
 - The Primary Products of New Zealand and their Influence upon our Material Prosperity.
 - Your Favourite Pursuit.
 - Relative Advantages and Disadvantages of Tennis, Cricket, and Football.
 - The Delights of Reading.
- Convert the following from the indirect narration to direct narration:

Gladstone said that the English people, whom they were there to represent, were indeed a great and noble people; but it added nothing to their greatness or their nobleness that, when they (the members of Parliament) assembled in that place, they should trumpet forth their own virtues in elaborate panegyrics, and designate those who might not be wholly of their mind as a knot of foreign conspirators. But the policy of the noble lord tended to encourage and confirm in them that which was their besetting fault and weakness, both as a nation and as individuals. Let an Englishman travel where he would as a private person, he was found in general to be upright, high-minded, brave, liberal, and true; but, with all that, foreigners were too often sensible of something that galled them in his presence; and Gladstone apprehended that it was because the Englishman had too great a tendency to self-esteem—too little disposition to regard the feelings, the habits, and the ideas of others.

- Using suitable connectives, combine the following into one good sentence:
 - Colonel Muir said.
 - He would have surrendered at once.
 - He had been summoned.
 - He thought.
 - It was his duty to offer resistance.
 - He should be either attacked or summoned.
- Punctuate the following, and insert capital letters where necessary:

i dont know what day of the month it is said scrooge i dont know how long i have been among the spirits i dont know anything im quite a baby never mind i dont care id rather be a baby hallo hallo here he was checked in his transports by the churches ringing out the lustiest peals he had ever heard clash clash hammer ding dong bell bell dong ding hammer clang clash oh glorious glorious running to the window he opened it and put out his head no fog no mist clear bright jovial stirring cold cold piping for the blood to dance to golden sunlight heavenly sky sweet fresh air merry bells oh glorious whats today cried scrooge calling downward to a boy in sunday clothes who perhaps had loitered in to look about him eh returned the boy with all his might of wonder whats today my fine fellow said scrooge today replied the boy why christmas day.
- Write the following sentences correctly:
 - The object of cross-examination is to eliminate the real facts of the case.
 - In a very short time we will probably find ourselves on a new footing.
 - He not only wrote the words but also the music.
 - Her handwriting is different to mine but she cant write so fast as me.
 - This was the least dignified scene in all the party squabbles which had preceded it.
- Make a précis of the leading article "Comment and Censorship." Put it in the form of a brief narrative of about two hundred words, and include only the most important points.

Comment and Censorship.

The extraordinary demands of the New South Wales Labour Movement Conference were promptly treated as they deserved by Mr. J. E. Fenton, who is acting as the Prime Minister of the Commonwealth during the absence of Mr. Scullin. To the demand that the Federal Labour Party should repudiate the financial agreement at which, on the advice of Sir Otto Niemeyer, the Conference of State Premiers and Treasurers had unanimously arrived, Mr. Fenton replied that the Government had concurred in the resolutions of the Conference, and "we shall at all costs stand by the agreement." But the second of the New South Wales Conference resolutions went very much further than the first. It was possible to dissent without dishonesty from the determination of the Commonwealth Government and the State Premiers to balance their Budgets and to do so not by increasing taxation but by reducing expenditure, and to abstain from further borrowing in London until the £36,000,000 owing there is cleared. But the short cut whereby the second of the New South Wales resolutions proposed to cancel Australia's war debt of £81,294,000, and to suspend the payment of interest on all of her overseas loans for five years, was so plainly dishonest that Mr. Fenton did well to treat it with contempt.

"The repudiation resolutions," he said, "could not be taken seriously. They emanated from a coterie of irresponsibles."

So far the Acting Prime Minister of the Commonwealth had acquitted himself admirably, but he unfortunately proceeded to supplement his rejection of these ridiculous repudiation proposals with a rider which was itself ridiculous.

He deprecated the actions of newspaper correspondents in cabling them to London, which would seriously prejudice Australia's credit abroad.

This statement, as we pointed out on Thursday, was a mistake, but after taking time to think it over, Mr. Fenton has made it worse. As a Sydney message informed us on Saturday,—

He expressed resentment at the despatch of press cable messages to London on the proposed war-debt repudiation. He said he was going to find out who was sending such misleading and defamatory reports, and added that it was time that censorship was exercised over newspaper correspondence.

With all the resources at the command of the Commonwealth Government it should not take the Acting Prime Minister very long to ascertain what correspondents had been cabling the resolutions of the New South Wales Labour Movement Conference to London. A telephone message to any of the big newspaper offices in Sydney or Melbourne would doubtless give him all the information he needed— if he really needed any. But, as his quarrel is really not with persons, but with newspapers, and the name of the newspaper which had been from his point of view the principal offender was already known, this detective zeal of Mr. Fenton's was really no more than a figure of speech.

It was, indeed, peculiarly a case in which the grievance, if there was any, was against the newspaper and not against its correspondent. We have not the slightest hesitation in saying that any correspondent of a London paper which had failed to report a matter of such great interest and importance as the resolutions of the New South Wales Labour Movement Conference would have seriously failed in his duty to his employers, to his profession, and to the public. It was a matter in which, as it specifically affected oversea creditors, London was, at any rate, in one material aspect, even more concerned than Sydney or Melbourne, and the Australian correspondent of a London journal who suppressed such a fact would have blundered badly. It is the truth, and the whole truth, insofar, of course, as it is of public importance, that the reporter was concerned to supply, leaving the task of comment and criticism to others. The whole duty of a newspaper in respect to both its historical and its critical functions has been admirably described by one of the greatest journalists, Mr. C. P. Scott, of the Manchester Guardian:

"Fundamentally it (the conduct of a newspaper) implies," he says, "honesty, cleanness, courage, fairness, the sense of duty to the reader and the community. The newspaper is of necessity something of a monopoly, and its first duty is to shun the temptations of monopoly. Its primary office is the gathering of news. At the peril of its soul it must see that the supply is not tainted. Neither in what it gives nor in what it does not give, nor in the mode of presentation, must the unclouded face of truth suffer wrong. Comment is free, but facts are sacred. Propaganda, so-called, by this means is hateful. The voice of opponents no less than that of friends has a right to be heard. Comment also is justly subject to a self-imposed restraint. It is well to be frank. It is even better to be fair."

In this case it is probable that all the leading London papers had the New South Wales resolutions cabled to them. The first word that we had on the subject from London was the editorial comment of the Morning Post, which reached us at the same time as the text of the resolutions from Sydney. It seems, however, to be clear that it was neither this comment nor the resolutions themselves, but the treatment of the resolutions by the Daily Telegraph, that had flattered Australian opinion in London and afterwards at Home. As a London message which we published on Thursday said, the cabling of the resolutions had had the unfortunate effect of causing a balanced morning newspaper like the Daily Telegraph to feature the message under double-column headings. Then it gives the terms of the resolutions. The whole is calculated to give unwarranted importance to the matter.

The editorial comments of the Telegraph, which were quoted at the same time, were reasonable enough, the most important being that, as for the demand for repudiation, this is too shameful to be taken more seriously than an emotional symptom. But the violence of reaction to proposals involving sacrifices cannot be regarded without anxiety by debenture-holders.

There is surely nothing objectionable here. It was really the action of the Daily Telegraph "featuring the message under double-column headings" that had given "unwarranted importance to the matter," and hurt Australian feelings.

It certainly cannot be denied that the double-column headings were in themselves comments, but obviously they are not the work of the correspondent whose scalp Mr. Fenton professes his desire to get, nor could they conceivably be brought within the range of any Commonwealth censorship. It is, however, gratifying to know that protests from Australia have resulted in the publication by the Daily Telegraph of a qualifying message with the satisfactory headings,—

"Australians and Financial Crisis." "New South Wales Labour Move denounced—Only Extremists behind It." "Cabinet's Policy Unshaken."

And concluding as follows:—

The Daily Telegraph's serious viewpoint is likely to have a sobering effect on Labour hot-heads, and encourage the moderates to rally to the support of the Federal Government.

Such is the advantage of the freedom which Mr. Fenton would like to limit. The Commonwealth Government is probably stronger as a result of the stir in London than it was before. The Times may be congratulated on its judicial appraisal of the "wild talk" on both sides.

Mr. Fenton's rather wild talk of a censorship over newspaper correspondents' cables concerning the repudiation of debts may, it says, be overlooked as a rhetorical expression of indignation.

It was not a censorship that was required, the article declared, but a proper understanding of the degree of importance attachable to extremists' utterances.

FOR THE RANK OF SENIOR SERGEANT.

EVIDENCE.

Time allowed: Three hours.

1. Define—Evidence; privilege; admission; irrelevant fact; dying declaration.
2. When are facts showing system deemed to be relevant? "B" is accused of burning his motor-car in order to obtain the insurance-money. State some facts which would go to show that "B" had committed an offence.
3. Draw an information charging "A" with the theft of £20, the property of his employers; and state what evidence you would place before the Court in support of the charge.
4. What is the difference between an oath and an affirmation, and under what circumstances is the latter form used by a witness in criminal proceedings?
5. Define "perjury," and state shortly what facts you would place before the Court to establish a prima facie case in a prosecution for perjury.
6. State briefly the provisions of the Evidence Act, 1908, dealing with the protection of witnesses.
7. Ignorance of the law is no excuse for the commission of a crime. Discuss this statement, and illustrate by reference to cases.
8. Distinguish between an informer and an accomplice, and state any rule applicable to the evidence of a witness who is held to be either one or the other. Refer to cases.
9. "A" is charged with sending threatening letters to "B." State the various ways by which "A's" handwriting may be proved.
10. What do you know of the following cases: Bell and others v. Bell and others; Reg. v. Green; Rex v. Reynolds and Paterson; Aitchison v. Hewitt.

DICTATION AND SPELLING.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SUPERVISOR.—The passage for dictation should be read out right through once, then slowly, a short phrase at a time, so as to permit the candidate to write in his best possible style. The whole passage should then be finally read right through so as to admit of correct punctuation. The words for spelling should be dictated slowly and distinctly, the meaning of each word being explained. As soon as the dictation and spelling are finished candidates must hand in their papers without delay. Candidates must put in their own stops and capital letters.

It is easy to spend; hard to save. But the habit of saving can be acquired with diligent practice. It requires a little self-sacrifice for a time, just as a boy or girl wishes to play a musical instrument well must give up a few hours every week when other children are at play. It may seem irksome to sit down and worry over exercises and scales day after day, but it brings its reward. In due time the fingers become nimble and supple, they wander more or less automatically over the keys as the eyes follow the notes of the staff, tone and expression become wonderfully developed; and the music is so beautifully rendered that it brings pleasure not only to the player, but also to those that listen.

Spelling.
