POLICE EXAMINATIONS, 1934.

In connection with the Police Examinations held in Sep-

In connection with the Police Examinations held in September last, the results of which are published hereunder, the Examination Board which examined the papers on "Police Force Act and Regulations" and "Police and Detective Duties" reports as follows:—
"The results on the whole were disappointing, as many of the candidates showed a lack of knowledge of these subjects. In the case of the Sergeant's Examination only nine candidates were successful. In the Senior Sergeant's Examination only four candidates presented themselves and not one succeeded in gaining the required marks for a pass. In the Sub-Inspector's Examination there were twenty candidates, but the great majority showed a very moderate knowledge of their subjects and only nine were successful. The Board again respectfully suggests that only those members of the Force who have passed the examination for Sergeant or Senior Sergeant should be allowed to sit for the Sub-Inspector's Senior Sergeant should be allowed to sit for the Sub-Inspector's Examination. We are also of opinion that the standard in each subject should be uniform and without bracketing as at present is the case of the subjects 'Evidence' and 'Prescribed Statutes.'"

The Examiner in "Evidence" and "Prescribed Statutes"

"Out of twenty candidates for the Sergeant's Examination three failed to reach the required standard. Only four candidates sat for the Senior Sergeant's Examination, and three of these were unsuccessful. The candidates for the Sub-Inspector's Examination were on the whole satisfactory and only one failed to pass.

"I would respectfully suggest that the required standard in these subjects be brought into line with that required for 'Police and Detective Duties' and 'Police Force Act and Regulations.'"

Regarding the literary section of the examinations, thirty-eight candidates sat for the Sub-Inspector's Examination and all but two passed. There were seventeen candidates for all but two passed. There were seventeen candidates the Sergeant's Examination, of whom ten were successful.

(a) Political Changes.

"Short as was the life of the Stout-Vogel Ministry, the existence of the Atkinson-Wakefield Administration has been still more brief," comments The Post of this date fifty years ago.

"The debate which led up to the emphatic declaration by the House of its want of confidence in the Ministry was a remarkable one in many respects, and in none more so than in the surprising gentleness with which the chief combatants treated each other. There was no very hard personal hitting, and nothing was said likely to embitter relations or to render it more difficult to bring about the coalition which each of the four leaders admitted to be both necessary and desirable under the present conditions."

Two days later The Post states: "Yesterday morning His Excellency sent for Mr. Stout, and had a prolonged interview with him, and afterwards saw Major Atkinson and some other prominent men, the result being that in the evening Mr. Stout was entrusted with the task of forming a Ministry, and undertook it. The difficulties of the task are very great, however.

Mr. Stout is, of course, bound to associate himself with Sir Julius Vogel, and it is very evident that the policy of any Ministry in which they hold the chief offices must be the repeal of the property-tax and the substitution of the land-tax. If Mr. Stout does not succeed this time in forming a Ministry able to command a working majority, a fresh appeal to the electors will be inevitable, and constitutionally he would be entitled to take their verdict on the matter."

(b) Maori Mendacity.

(b) Maori Mendacity.

"Tawhiao's mission to England has generally been regarded in the colony rather in the light of a joke than involving any serious consequences. Knowing the man and how slight his influence is over his own race, it was not thought that he would do much good or much harm. In fact, it was supposed that both he and his colleagues would return to the colony with enlarged ideas and much improved by their experiences. It would appear, however, that the Maori mission may after all prove highly injurious to the colony, for, to put it very plainly, Tawhiao and Major Te Wheoro seem to have developed unexpected talent for mendacity, and their statements seem to have been taken for gospel by men who ought to know better. We hope to hear that the Agent-General has taken some steps to counteract the mischief likely to arise from their mendacious tales about 'impoverished tribes.' The Colonial Office has, we are glad to see, already done something in this direction by warning the British public regarding Tawhiao's real status. This was not done before it was time, but apparently it has had an immediate good effect."

(c) Glove-fight in Wellington.

(c) Glove-fight in Wellington.

"A very interesting glove-fight, for £20, came off last night a short distance out of Wellington. The affair was kept dark, as there appeared to be an impression on the part of some of the parties concerned that the police would interfere. In reference to this we may state that glove-fights have within the past few months been several times openly advertised in the Auckland papers and brought off with the fullest publicity in the Theatre Royal without any objection being made by the police or the municipal authorities. That which we have to chronicle was conducted in a very creditable manner, and there was nothing during the whole of the proceedings which could have disgusted any reasonable man. Nine o'clock was the hour fixed, and within a few minutes of that time the principals stepped into the ring. The spectators consisted of about seventy persons, the behaviour of all of them being most exemplary throughout, even smoking by tacit agreement being refrained from. The articles of agreement, which were read, indicated that the fight was to be under the Marquis of Queensberry's rules with slight modifications. One of the combatants, whom we shall call P., is a well-known baker, who in several boxing matches has shown that he possesses considerable talent as a master of the art of self-defence. The other, whom we shall call F., is engaged in a city hotel and is comparatively unknown to the game. How the fight would have ended had no accident occurred it is hard to say, but in the tenth round F.'s right-hand thumb was put out of joint. He, however, maintained the struggle very pluckily for another six rounds, but receiving such heavy punishment in the sixteenth round threw up the sponge. F's face was slightly marked and there was a little nose-bleeding, but with these exceptions neither man showed any visible effects of the encounter. We understand that another meeting is to be arranged."

(d) Progressive Petone.

"Petone is going ahead. Proofs of this are the increased value of land and the number of new buildings which are going up everywhere.

Sections which a few months ago could be acquired for £30 or £40 are now changing hands at £50 to £60. The new Town Hall, built as a private speculation, is a fine edifice; Mr. Wilkin's store, which has been opened about a month, seems to be doing a fair amount of trade; the drill-shed has had three rooms built on to it; and several substantial new houses and cottages are being erected or have lately been completed. The first railway carriage has been turned out from the Government shops and it is an improvement upon the imported article. The post-office has been removed to the railway-station, and now does telegraph and money-order business as well. The Maoris have been paid for the land on which the Woollen Company's mill is to be erected, and are enjoying themselves with the proceeds. If there is an inspector of nuisances in Petone, there should be plenty for him to do." should be plenty for him to do."

(e) Hop-culture in Wellington.

"Hop culture in an industry which is about to be established in Wellington. Messrs. W. H. Levin and H. D. Bell, the owners of an estate of 500 acres at Lowry Bay, formerly belonging to the Government, have decided to ascertain the suitability of the soil for hop-growing, and arrangements have been entered into with Mr. Stafford, son of the late Mr. Hugh Stafford, an old settler in Nelson, for the establishment of the necessary gardens on a portion of their property. old settler in Nelson, for the establishment of the necessary gardens on a portion of their property. An area of 20 acres will be cultivated, and about a score of men are now busily engaged preparing the ground. Great interest will doubtless be taken in the experiment by all those who have the welfare of the district at heart, and they will, we are sure, wish that every success may attend the initial cultivation."

(f) News from Overseas.

"The arrangements for the expedition to relieve General Gordon in Khartoum are progressing rapidly. It is expected that the expedition will reach Khartoum by the middle of January. It has now transpired that Lord Wolseley is proceeding to Egypt because General Stephenson has declared that the transport of the proposed expedition via the Nile Valley is not feasible."

DICTATION AND SPELLING.

Instructions to Supervisor.—The passage for dictation should be read out right through once, then slowly, a short phrase at a time so as to permit the candidate to write in his best possible style. The whole passage should then be finally read right through so as to admit of correct punctuation. The words for spelling should be dictated slowly and distinctly, the meaning of each word being explained. As soon as the dictation and spelling are finished candidates must hand in their papers without delay. Candidates must put in their own stops and capital letters.

Madam, there is one blot on your fair fame and one only. You have supplied the cricket-field with a word of dread. Why your egg, rather than any other, should have been chosen to typify by its shape the most ignominious numeral in the multiplication table, I have no notion. A duck's egg is not more like a nought than the egg of the hen or of the goose or of the turkey, and indeed it is far less round than that of the pigeon and of the owl. But it was upon your egg that the humorous similist fastened; it was you who were set apart to humiliate those who fail to score.

For the rest, you are the friend of man; in life you stand on your head in the water with the most enchant.

huminate those who fail to score.

For the rest, you are the friend of man; in life you stand on your head in the water with the most enchanting unconcern and, when the fatal day arrives, your gift of blending melodiously with sage and onions is beyond praise. Peas be with you!
