

THE CATHOLIC ENCYCLOPEDIA

AN INTERNATIONAL WORK OF REFERENCE, IN 15 VOLUMES BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED

The following are typical appreciations of the work by the Editors and Contributors of The Catholic Encyclopedia. Most Reverend John M. Farley, Archbishop of New York: "Most illustrious and Reverend Sir, I have recently received the first volume of the (illustrated) Catholic Encyclopedia, which is to be followed by fourteen other volumes...

Through your good offices, the Holy Father has lately received the first volume of the (illustrated) Catholic Encyclopedia, which is to be followed by fourteen other volumes... The purpose of the work is to set forth the immense benefits conferred through the Catholic Church on mankind, not only by furthering moral and social development, but also by promoting civil, scientific, and artistic growth and progress. In conclusion, the Holy Father heartily congratulates the efficient editors and their collaborators on the first happy fruit of their labors...

I avail myself of this welcome occasion to assure your Grace of my very profound esteem, etc. etc.

(Signed) R. CARDI MERRY DEL VAL

Rome, December 1, 1907. From his Eminence, Cardinal Moran, Archbishop of Sydney: "The Encyclopedia is a marvellous undertaking."

From his Eminence, Cardinal Gibbons, Baltimore: "I ought to be, of course, in the library of every Catholic priest, also in the library of every Catholic institution, educational and charitable, and in the library or assembly-room of every Catholic society. Above all, it ought to be in the library or living-room of every Catholic family in every English-speaking country."
