IRELAND AND THE WAR

EARLY all the Archbishops and Bishops of Ireland in their Lenten pastorals have much to say on the question of the War, and to the position of Ireland and its people in relation thereto. The Bishop of Down says that those of the Irish race who are taking part in the conflict are simply fulfilling the obligation which they owe their native land. What a German invasion or the establishment of German rule in Ireland would mean they had before them the treatment meted out to Belgium. His Lordship then goes on to say: 'Never before, in all the world's long history, has the game of war been played on such a stupendous scale. Not thousands merely, but millions of combatants are ranged on either side in this sanguinary struggle. The
