The Kitchen Test and the Coin Test —

Judge it by Both !

Gerstena only requires 2 minutes' cooking—look at the time, the stirring, the fuel this saves.

It is very satisfying, because its nutriment in the cereals of which it is made is doubled by the special Gerstena process of manufacture. Yet it does not merely fill for the moment—it has the lasting nutriment of meat and eggs.

That is the Kitchen Test.

One tablespoonful of Gerstena makes a plate of porridge sufficient for one person.

There are 30 table-spoonsfull of Gerstena to a bag. At an average cost of 1/3 a bag Gerstena Porridge therefore costs one halfpenny a plate.

From no other food—meat, eggs, or fish—can the same amount of nutriment be had for the same cost.

THAT IS THE COIN TEST.

Try it by both of these, and you'll realise the economical goodness of

Gerstena
