Book-keeping

Easy to Grasp
Inexpensive to Learn Invaluable to Know

For the very small sum of five pounds we will teach you how to open, enter, post, and balance a set of books by double entry.

This knowledge is essential to every man in every branch of commercial life.

By taking Hemingway and Robertson's £5 Mercantile Book-keeping Course, and studying a few hours a week in your own home, you obtain training of inestimable value.

During the whole Course, you are under the guidance of the most highly qualified instructors, and you cannot fail to obtain the utmost benefit from your studies. A notable feature of the Course is that although the cost is only five pounds no books whatever are required.

Write for particulars to-day.

"The Service of a House is Judged by its capacity to retain the Good-will of its Patrons."

Recognising this undeniable fact in modern business, Ballantynes insert Newspaper Advertisements and issue Circulars and Catalogues—accurately portraying the goods by word and illustration—and thereby extending the service of the House to all parts of the Dominion. That they have succeeded in and affording distant dwellers the benefit of selecting from high-grade merchandise, is evidenced by their extensive Mail Order connection. Patrons' obvious satisfaction, and loyalty to this old-established House reflect its capacity to retain their good-will.

Simplifying Mail Order Shopping

What the Ballantyne Service does for you

Answers all inquiries by first possible mail—Has goods selected by a specially trained staff—Has goods packed carefully and forwarded promptly—Pays postage to any part of the Dominion except on heavy or "fragile" articles—Allows discount of a 1/- in the £ for cash or on monthly Accounts.

What the Ballantyne Service appreciates from Customers

A clear statement of goods required including sizes, colours and prices—A second choice when possible—Full postal address—Money-order for approximate amount if account has not already been opened.
