

Notes on Contributors

VICKI CURTIS, BA, DIP LIBR, is Systems Planning Librarian in the Reference and Interloan Services division of the National Library. This article was begun while she was Acting First Assistant in the Reference Section of the Alexander Turnbull Library, 1984-85.

RAEWYN DALZIEL, BA (HONS), PHD, is a senior lecturer in history at the University of Auckland. Her latest book is Julius Vogel: Business Politician, and she has published articles on New Zealand social and political history.

JOAN McCracken, BA, NZLA CERT, has recently been appointed Pictorial Reference Librarian at the Alexander Turnbull Library.

DIANA MEADS, BA, DIP NZLS, is Manuscripts Librarian at the Alexander Turnbull Library.

JILL PALMER, MA, DIP NZLS, is Music Librarian at the Alexander Turnbull Library.

FRANCES PORTER, MA (HONS), developed an interest in colonial history from working in the Historical Branch of the Department of Internal Affairs. She edited The Turanga Journals of William and Jane Williams (1974), and the Historic Buildings of New Zealand series published by the New Zealand Historic Places Trust (1979, 1983). The author of A Sense of History, about Captain Cook's landing sites in New Zealand (1978), she is currently working on a biography of Jane Maria Atkinson.

KAY SANDERSON, MA, DIP LIBR, is a librarian in the Manuscripts Section of the Alexander Turnbull Library.

JUNE STARKE, BA (HONS), ANZLA, retired in October 1983 from the Alexander Turnbull Library as Subject Specialist (Manuscripts). She has published occasional articles in the Turnbull Library Record, and has recently edited the journal of John Boulton, a sealer living on the south-west coast of New Zealand, 1825-1828. Under the title Journal of a Rambler, it is to be published in May 1986 by Oxford University Press with the aid of a grant from the Alexander Turnbull Library Endowment Trust.

JOHN SULLIVAN, BA, DIP NZLS, is Photograph Librarian at the Alexander Turnbull Library.