A PATHETIC STORY WITH A MORAL.

Mr Edwards, M.P., recently stated at an assembly of the Scottish Temperance League, Glasgow, that at a recruiting meeting he was approached by a young man, who asked whether Government would look after the wives and children of those who enlisted? He was assured that Government would. He enlisted, and was passed on in due course to the trenches, where, after months of good service, he was wounded, and then returned home on furlough. On his way back to the Front he called at the House of Commons and asked for Mr Edwards. "He refused to shake hands with me," said that gentleman,

"and asked: 'What have you done for our homes? I left a happy home—I came back to find my wife a drunkard, my children neglected, my home broken up. You expect us to put our bodies between you and your enemies, but you will not put even a trench between the drink enemy and our homes.'"

Throw overboard useless regretting
 For deeds which you cannot undo,
 And learn the great art of forgetting
 Old things which embitter the new.
 Sing who will of dead years departed,
 I shroud them and bid them adieu,
 And the song that I sing, happy-hearted,
 Is a song of the glorious new.
