A LETTER TO THE PREMIER.

The following letter has been sent to the Right Honourable George W. Forbes, Premier:—

Dear Sir,-

I beg to conclude the appeal to you begun before the Emergency Session. It is the straight, practical words of women you are requested to note, in a time when nothing but stern truth can touch the realities of a world-wide economic crisis, significantly coincident with a moral reaction disturbing the world-order to which we belong.

The first duty of States to-day, as women see it, is conservation. All nations now profess to seek economic conservation. We believe that saving should begin first on that which wastes most health wealth, and morale—Alcohol. This saving must begin at once. When earth was wide, each nation muddled and wasted to its content. Now earth is narrow and hotly contended for; the weakened and wasteful go to the wall.

Alcohol is now counted wholly as a luxury, being proved neither food nor medicine, nor yet safe stimulant. A nation which, like New Zealand, spends on one luxury twice as much as on its schools and four times as much as on its hospitals, is heading for ruin.

Undoubtedly a special peril threatens the Britannic States to-day. Its causes are many, but Alcohol, with its attendant evils, has become the key factor. We seem in a state of stupor over it, indifferent to the fact that both England and New Zealand have recently been pronounced C3 nations. As a matter of course, men drink equally on the English dole and on the New Zealand relief wage. Moral conviction is a generally sound principle; but we do not fight opium and smallpox on suasion.

New Zealand's last Drink Bill was £8,116,894, a rise of £550,662 on the year before. Deducting revenue, a luxury bill of £6,360,945 remains. Spent normaily, this sum would help trade, found new industries, endow child welfare, and conserve health, morality, and home life. As spent now, it throttles trade, restricts industry, destroys childhood's chances, saps health and morality, and breaks up home life.

It is calculated that the net Drink Bill would provide 20,387 workers with an income of £6 per week, and, allowing each worker to maintain a wife and two children, would support 81,548 persons. Adding in workless women and boys, you will find difficulty in providing relief for a number somewhat smaller than this.

It is computed that the net Drink Bill would pay for our total expenditure on education and all our pensions and family allowances. It would pay half the wages of our factory workers. For every £1 spent on Health, we are spending £32 16s. on Alcohol.

Turn to the vital cost of this luxury. Of lives lost by alcoholism, there is no exact record; only the poor and friendless are thus branded in death. Sociologists hazard a likely number; adding in a proportion of suicides, they name 250 a year. This does not, I think, include deaths by accident, motor and other, due to alcoholic influence.

It is thus seen that we lose more lives by drink every year than were lost in the Hawke's Bay earthquake. The money loss was counted as £7,745,812. Every year, New Zealand drinks the equivalent of a gigantic earthquake disaster.

What are we doing about it? Seemingly nothing. Business men, vocal in war time, do not report these facts now. Doctors are silent about them, even in Health Week. The Churches no longer declaim them. They are too "controversial" for papers to publish in poll year. Only the "Vanguard," the "New Zealand Rechabite," and the "White Ribbon" publish full facts and presentments. The men of the New Zealand Alliance and minor temperance organisations stand to their guns yet, but the burden of nation-wide propaganda and ceaseless activity from poll to poll rests upon the Women's Christian Temperance Union. These women know no defeat, see nothing but one ordained goal ahead.

Do New Zealand statesmen know less than these women of the money loss and human wastage that goes pitilessly on? Are they blind to the swift rising of the non-alcoholised, highly industrial Oriental nations? Will they leave the women to play the patriots' part alone? I do not write without warrant. Long in membership with the National Council of New Zealand women, and an officebearer in the Women's Christian Teraperance Union, in personal touch with the Australian Leagues, and for twenty years New Zealand correspondent for the International Woman Suffrage Alliance, I dare to speak for the constructive motherhood of the world.

You have initiated a sound, courageous economic scheme. Firm, concerted Cabinet action to rouse and enlighten the country on its greatest danger will set upon that scheme the seal of vision and sincerity.

> I am, dear Sir, Yours respectfully,

JESSIE MACKAY.

Cashmere Hills, Christchurch, May 30, 1931.

Not politics in religion, but religion in politics, is a present-day need.

THE MOCKER.

CHAPTER VIII.-Continued.

Neither brother nor sister moved until the echo of Anne's determinedly departing footsteps died away, and then Ralph turned and faced his sister. Something in her sad, pale face stirred him to a sudden impulse, and he came across to Putting his hand on her shoulder, he said, "She's right, Phyl. I'm a damned waster, but if you'll stand by me, I'll take a pull. I've boozed because I liked it, and thought it smart, but last night has put the stopper on. I know I can do without booze, but, Phyl. Billy can't. I must speak, even if I hurt you, dear," as Phyllis moved "Look! Give Billy up, restlessly. Phyl. He is not good enough for you. I would not say it if I was not sure. I've knocked about with him a good deal, and he is one of the best if he keeps off the booze, but, Phyl, the Mocker has got him fast, and will never let go. Give him up, or you will ruin your life."

Phyllis looked up, her eyes full of tears, and shook her head.

"Ralph, I've given my promise. Billy will keep straight for me, I'm sure."

"I know he is mad on you, but, believe me, your influence over him is not as great as the Mocker's, and you will find it out if you marry him. However, you know what you think it right to do, and I must not interfere any more. I just felt I had to warn you. Well, I must be off. Anything you want in town?" he asked as he went to the door.

"No, thanks. I'm going to meet mother, and can get all I want then," she answered, following him into the hall.

She went with him to the front door, and drearily watched him down the drive. As she turned indoors again, a strange depression settled on her—a strong premonition of coming evil, which, strive as she might, she could not succeed in throwing off.

CHAPTER IX.

True to her word, the Waddler arrived at lunch time with Joan and John Chilton seated beside her in the car. She lifted Joan carefully out and carried her into the warm, cheerful diningroom, where Phyllis and Mrs Moore were awaiting them. Anne placed her burden down upon the cushioned window-seat in the warm sunshine. She then took off the children's hats and coats, saying:

"There now, nippers, I have done my duty by you. It's great to see you home again, Mother Moore. I'll be ready for lunch in two hits," and she vanished bathroom-wards.

Phyllis sat down by Joan and took her hand, while, with her other arm, she drew John close to her. Both children started to talk at once, expressing their pleasure at having Phyllis all to themselves for a few hours. Joan, however, soon became listless, and seemed heavy and drowsy. At intervals she was shaken with a harsh, tearing cough, and when they sat down to lunch, she took a mouthful or two of food, and then pushed her plate away.

"Oh! come on, Joan! Eat up, chicken!" Anne urged her.

"Joan t'ant, nurse, fank you. Make Joan sick. Want a d'ink of water, p'ease."

"Poor Joan was sick at breakfast this morning," said John, in his sedate way.

Anne looked grave, but merely said, "Never mind, John. Eat your lunch. Joan will soon be better."

Immediately after lunch, Anne beckoned Mrs Moore into the hall by a slight, backward nod of her head.

"Now, mother," she said quickly, "I don't want to frighten you, but you must watch wee Joan carefully, and don't take her out of the warm room."

"What about her afternoon nap?" inquired Mrs Moore. "Would it be alright to put her in Phyl's room if I have a fire lit there and warm the air thoroughly first? No need to alarm Phyl unnecessarily, and I can just say the room was chilly."

"Alright," answered the Waddler, taking up her gloves and bag. "If you think she is getting any worse, ring the doctor at once, and he can get her idiot of a mother if he thinks it necessary."

Anne departed for her afternoon's work, and Mrs Moore gave orders straight away for a fire to be lighted in her daughter's bedroom. Returning to the dining-room, she found Phyllis and her two small guests deeply engrossed in a game of "ludo."

Presently Mrs Moore suggested to Phyllis that she should take Joan up for her sleep, explaining that she had had the room warmed. "She will be better for forty winks, Phyl," she finished. "She looks very weary."

So Phyllis picked Joan up in her arms and carried her upstairs to the bedroom. Tucking her comfortably up on the small bed, which was always ready in her room for Joan's visits, Phyllis said "Now, have a good sleep, dear, and thes Phillimore will come and dress you, and we will have a good game before teatime."

PIONEER PARTY.

DUNEDIN CENTRAL BRANCH.

A Pioneer Party was arranged by the Dunedin Central Branch of the W.C. T.U., with two objects in view: to raise funds for the Forward Movement, and to do honour to our pioneers.

This was a most successful and happy meeting. The Mayor and Mayoress were present, the Mayor giving a most encouraging speech, and the Mayoress a song. Our President opened the meeting with a short address.

A very enjoyable programme of music and recitation was given, and very much appreciated.

The Mayoress, President, and Pioneers were presented with bouquets by the President of the Y's.

Each pioneer was given seven minutes to give a speech, and, needless to say, they made good use of their short time. In vivid manner they took us back to the very early days of the W.C. T.U., and gave a very clear idea of the hard work in the strenuous times of these early days, making some of us feel rather ashamed of our lack of enthusiasm in these more prosaic days. The oldest member, who joined with the very first, gave a most interesting and vigorous speech, in spite of her 80 odd years.

One pioneer was unable to attend through sickness, and sent her son to represent her. One could not but admire him as he gave his speech, received his mother's bouquet, and sat with the Supper was served, and a most successful and happy meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the Temperance Doxology. The room was beautifully decorated, the White Ribbon bows being much in evidence.

THE POPE AND THE FIGHT AGAINST ALCOHOLISM.

When a group of pilgrims from the Cerman Catholic Abstinence Society, the League of the Cross, arrived in Rome to have an audience of the Pope, they were cordially received. "You are particularly welcome," said the Pope, because you represent a federation and a work that we consider worthy of all praise. Your work is not only a pious undertaking, but an honourable and sacred combat, a struggle against evil, a fight for God and your fellowmen, for the people and the Church, for the family and the individual. Pursue your noble aim; continue with ever renewed courage this sacred combat. The fruits of the struggle will not be withheld from you, inestimable fruits, a source of happiness for yourselves and your families. The Church rejoices quite especially at your activity for fighting thus against evil. You collaborate in signal fashion with the Apostolate, the true Apostolate of the Church, for you have chosen a sphere in which you may save many souls, and often bodies as well."

A CALL TO PRAYER.

August.—Prayer's Prevailing Conditions.

Reading: Luke 18:1-19, "Importunity." Heb. 10:19-25, "Steadfastness."

"In 1st chapter of Joshua "courage" is four times spoken of as necessary to his discharge of duty. How often would difficulties be moved out of the way did we but go forward."

Frances E. Willard was speaking on prayer, when she said: "Life is very simple after all. It is just trust in God and reaching out the helping hand. The body is the engine, the soul the engineer; that breath of God we are wont to call the Spirit furnishes the steam power. There you are! Now open the throttle valve and let her drive."

- Prayer Topics:
 - 1. Our local Churches.
 - 2. Our Ministers.
 - 3. Our Forward Movement.
 - 4. Our Y's.
 - 5. The Coming Poll.

"It is always noontide somewhere, And across the awak'ning continents From shore to shore somewhere Our prayers are rising evermore."

A PERTINENT QUESTION.

Canst thou not watch with Me one hour?

In the great hospital of Time, Jesus was keeping watch by the couch of a sick world. In the same ward, with the same patient to take care of, His disciples had fallen asleep. (Matheson.)

Christ was watching the nation He loved going to its ruin, going deliberately, rejecting its Messiah, sealing its own doom. Already the Roman eagles were gathering for the conflict, and the Master was watching the destruction of Jerusalem, the death of the Jewish nation, its people scattered over the world, a race, a peculiar people, but never more a nation. Jesus was watching a world devoid of hope, devoid of faith, dark with war and misery. And seeing this, He died for the world because He believed it was worth saving, even at the cost of His life.

Are His followers to-day watching with Him in Gethsemane, or are they sleeping while He agonises?

Wake up! and share the vigil. Watch the race-destroying action of the deadly drug we license the sale of. Watch how it robs the child of its right to be well-born, injuring the germ cells ere conscious life begins. Parental responsibility weakened, children robbed of home life, and handed over to the control of the State. Broken bodies, ruined intellects, and weakened characters. A nation headed for destruction. Watch! It is a nation worth saving, even at the cost of life itself.

"The nation that sinneth shall die." Save the nation by cleansing it from the national sin of licensing a soul-debasing, nation-destroying trade.

"The law will be broken," says the pessimist. Probably! All laws are broken sometimes. But the law is righteous, and its flouting becomes the sin of an individual, and not the crime of a nation.

The Master has come, and is calling to the disciples of to-day as He called to the disciples of His own time, "Canst thou not watch with Me one hour?" "One little hour, and then the Hallelujah. Eternity's deep long thanksgiving song"

IT'S THE RACE THAT COUNTS.

Love of home and the desire for fine children have been strong among all the great civilised peoples of history. Even young folks are deeply moved by these powerful ideals. Aleohol strikes at the very foundation of racial advance. Laboratory experiments have taught us that even small doses of alcohol attack the most highly developed cells of the body—the brain, the nerves, the racial cells of procreation. These creative cells in alcoholic parents—if not completely destroyed—are degenerated, and the child suffers the fatal consequences even before birth. The children of drinking parents show a strong tendency toward weakened mentality—there are more idiots and inferior individuals among them. It is even probable that the germ plasm itself—that vital spark which continues on through countless centuries—is so affected by alcohol that the children for generations to come suffer from the sins of the fathers. It is the race that counts, and alcohol is an enemy of its advance.—Dr. K. Herman Bouman, noted Dutch scientist and psychiatrist, University of Amsterdam, Holland.

OBITUARY.

MRS E. H. CRABB.

It is with deep regret that we record the passing on of Mrs E. H. Crabb, of Palmerston North. Mrs Crabb had resided for 21 years in Palmerston North, and took a leading part in all that made for the social and moral uplift of humanity. She was one of the first women members of the Palmerston North Hospital Board, and the first woman J.P. in that town. She was a member of the Y.W.C.A. Board and of the College Street School Committee. For 11 years she held the position o. President of the local W.C.T.U., was District President before Wellington and Manawatu were divided. She held the position of Dominion Vice-President, and during the absence of Mrs Don in England she was acting-President, in which capacity she presided over the Dominion Convention held in Wellington in 1920. Her fellow-efficers loved her. She was bright, cheery, and helpful, an earnest seeker after truth, and one who loved mercy and walked humbly with her God.

Willard Home stands as a lasting tribute to her memory, and bears witness to her passionate love for children. She was the founder of that Home, for eight years was President of the brave band of women whose labours built up that splendid institution. Its welfare was always dear to her, and the last time she was out was to attend the Willard Home Birthday Party. Mrs Crabb was at her best in her own home, and many of her fellow-officers have memories of happy times spent under her hospitable roof. We sympathise most deeply with her husband and family in the loss of such a wife and mother.

MISS ELLEN MARY SMITH.

Invercargill Union has suffered a severe loss in the death of its President, Miss Smith, and the District Union has lost a fine Treasurer. Her life had been spent in Invercargill, and she was respected by all and loved by many. She took a great interest in the Band of Hope, of which she was Superintendent, represented the W.C. T.U. on the N.C.W., and was Secretary to the Rest Room Committee.

A very large number attended her funeral. At the service in the home, Mrs McGregor, District President, and Mrs Lillicrap, Central Vice-President, recited the beautiful White Ribbon burial service. At the graveside the D.L. of the Rechabites assisted in the service.

To the sisters and brother we tender sincere sympathy.

SUPERINTENDENTS' LETTERS.

ANTI-GAMBLING.

Dear Sisters,-

You will have noticed from the newspapers that a private member's Bill has been introduced into the House for the licensing of bookmakers, and has passed the first reading.

The Bill seeks to legalise the business of bookmaking. Such a license will entitle the holder to carry on the business at his registered office, and upon any racecourse, subject to conditions laid down by the Race Provision has also been Club. made for the licensing of clerks. Now the Bill looks to the man in the street, in this time of depression, to be of great benefit to the country as a revenue-returning proposition, forgetting the evil and suffering of many through the curse of gambling.

Our platform is to oppose anything that will increase or more strongly entrench the evils of gambling, so I would ask you all to watch the newspapers when the second reading is coming before the House, and send on a strong protest to the Member of your district, and the Minister of Internal Affairs, the Hon. De la Perelle.

The promoter of the Bill, Mr H. T. Armstrong, Labour member for Christchurch East, is sure the measure is wanted, and thinks that it has a sporting chance of going through this session. He does not claim that the Bill is perfect in every respect, but repeats that bookmaking should either be suppressed or controlled and taxed. We ask why entrench it more deeply? If there are 350 bookmakers, as Mr Armstrong says, just now, when the business is illegal, this number will be greatly increased when they can practice in safety for the paying of a licensing fee.

HOME AND MOTHERS' MEETINGS. Dear Sisters,-

Some of you still think I am your Literature Superintendent, by still sending me your orders for literature. Please note that all orders should be sent to Headquarters, where Mrs Ross will attend to them.

Perhaps it is more strange for me to write about something else than litera-At Convention I was appointed Dominion Superintendent for your Home and Mothers' Meetings. On reading last year's report of this Department, I find very few Unions are having "Home Meetings." To me it seems like the 10 per cent. cut in our Union work.

This is not a "one horse" power age, but a "100 horse-power one," which shows that we ourselves must keep upto-date and use more power. "But," you say, "where are we to get this power? I have no electric dynamo in my house." Let me remind you of the power God has promised in Is. 40:29: "He giveth power to the faint, and to them that have no might He increaseth strength.'

Then in Acts 6 we read how Stephen was chosen out of the disciples because he was a man full of faith; and after the disciples had prayed, how the word of God increased in power and the number of the disciples multiplied, and Stephen worked wonders and miracles among the people.

Doesn't this prove that more prayer is the motive power we need to-day? There is an old Methodist motto, "All at it, and always at it."

To me the need of intensity is evident. No success is to be found in any walk of life without this. No business man can make a success of his business, no teacher may succeed, no preacher bring into the Kingdom the souls entrusted to his care, except by ways of intensity.

In days gone by how we loved the cottage prayer meetings, which we used to have in connection with the Christian Endeavour, and to-day they are hardly heard of. Let me ask Unions to arrange one a week, or one a month. The President could say a few words or find a speaker, and go along to an invalid and have an old time meeting; you could often go in the evening instead of an afternoon. The drawing-room meetings will in most cases be better in the afternoons, where you are out to get new members. Do make an effort to do this, please, sisters; it will mean power and strength to your individual Unions.

We hear a lot about the economic conditions to-day, but we realise that the capitalist can't do without the worker, and the worker can't do without the capitalist, so both must unite and work hand in hand.

As Christian women, let us recognise the power that lies in prayer, and gather together as often as possible to gain strength for these "100 horsepower" days. Human hearts are longing, hungering, and yearning after God. He needs the preacher more than ever to-day. He needs also the one without brilliant talents. He needs the commonplace one to complete His wondrous plan. He needs you, He needs

A commonplace life, we say as we sigh, But why should we sigh as we say? The commonplace sun in the commonplace sky

Makes up the commonplace day. The moon and the stars are commonplace things,

And the flower that blooms, and the bird that sings;

But dark the world, and sad our lot, If the flower failed and the sun shone not.

And God who studies each separate soul.

Out of commonplace lives makes a beautiful whole.

With loving greetings .- Yours in His sweet service.

NOTABLE DAYS DEPARTMENT. Ormondville, June 27, 1931. Dear Sisters .-

Having been reappointed Superintendent of the above Department, I want to notify all Secretaries that I have moved from Oamaru, and that my permanent address will be "Miss A. F. Webb, Ormondville, Hawke's Bay."

July 27th is the next Notable Day to be kept, being Memorial, or T. E. Tay-On this day, or the nearest lor Day. day convenient, reference should be made to the life and work of some one of our leaders, who having done their work here on earth, have been called to higher service. They did their part in sowing the seed of temperance education, but did not live to see the fruits of their labours, and we have much to learn from their example of patient work and faith, which should inspire us in our own efforts to-day. Most Unions have had some specially noteworthy worker in their own district. Why not write a paper on your own old friend to give to some other Union?

Yours sincerely, ALICE F. WEBB.

IN MEMORIAM.

MRS W. McARA.

On the 9th of June, 1931, Mrs McAra, wife of the late Rev. W. McAra, of Sumner, passed away at the ripe age of 83.

After forty years' splendid work in Kaikoura, she and her husband continued their successful ministry in Sumner, where she will be much missed. She has been an earnest worker in the cause of Temperance and Prohibition, and always took the keenest interest in the work of the local W.C.T.U., of which she was Vice-President. The cause of Missions also came very near to her heart. She was President for years of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Union in Sumner. She was one of the "Lord's Remembrances," and was always present at the week-night services, as well at both services on Sun-Her's was a long life, full of interest and activity. Her mental faculties were keen and clear to the last. Her sympathy drew her very near to the lives and homes of the needy, and she could readily enter into and understand their difficulties and problems. She drew out what was best in each one, and she made the manse a haven of rest and help. Her hospitality was proverbial, and her sweet smile and cheerful welcome made the poorest feel at home. She exercised remarkable tact, and made for the peace of the congregation by her wise counsel and shrewd commonsense. She believed the best and hoped for the best in She leaves the memory of a long and beautiful life. If she knew of any case of want, she and her husband were always ready to render practical help.

From her earliest years she had a deep love for her Saviour, and her faith in Him was clear and firm to the last.

Her passing was only the gateway into a better life. She is safe in the in the "home of Father's keeping She will be greatly many mansions." missed by all who loved her, but their loss is her gain.

Dear Sisters,-

You will rejoice to know that funds for the extinction of Headquarters second mortgage now amount to £463 9s 2d. This is only £186 10s 10d. short of the amount Convention asked for (£650) from the Unions throughout New Zealand, and we expect still a little more to come in.

It has been a supreme and magnificent effort in this time of financial stress, and on behalf of the whole Union may I congratulate everyone who has helped in any way at all to bring it about? We shall now be able to pay off this mortgage at the end of July, and so save the interest, thus lifting part of a heavy burden from the shoulders of our N.Z. officers and the Headquarters Committee.

Now for our poll work. It is probable that the elections will not be later than September, so we have little more than two months in which to finish our educational work and gather up our voters. Two poll work organisers are already in the field-Miss Lynn in the King Country, and Miss Douglas in the Wellington district; while both the Misses McLay have been sent down South to concentrate in the No-License areas. These areas are threatened, as always, with Restoration majorities at the poll, and our White Ribbon sisters of Otago and Southland are lending all their energies to preventing this calamity from overtaking them. Let us remember them ever in our prayers.

Your N.Z. officers and the N.Z. Literature Committee have spent many hours of careful thought and study on the question of suitable literature. You will see from this "White Ribbon" what we have in stock. There are tens of thousands of concise leaflets on the scientific, social, and economic aspects of the drink problem. Local and District Unions may purchase at a reduction of 50 per cent. for free distribution.

I ask you once again to show your loyalty to the Union and the cause we all love by getting these leaflets and putting into the hands of every New Zealand voter the striking facts contained therein.

We cannot all give a great deal, nor can we all speak in public or do organisation work, but these two things we can do, and they are vital—educate public opinion through our literature, and pray for our cause and our workers.

Day and night let us beseech the throne of grace and love on behalf of the suffering and handicapped children of this fair land, the children whom Christ loved and died to save.

With loving greetings from ELIZABETH TAYLOR, Dom. President.

WORLD'S W.C.T.U.'S PRESIDENT.

My Dear Friends,-

Late last night I heard the sad news that our dear Miss Gordon had been called Home.

A prominent leader in Canada said to me last night, "How we shall miss her loving messages."

Anna Gordon never spared kind words, and she surrounded people with so many loving little actions and brought home to every one the realisation that White Ribboners the world over must work together as one great sisterhood.

Her ready appreciation of small efforts caused many women to join our ranks. They realised the importance of little beginnings. Her wide vision of our work was so wise.

What a wonderful succession we have had of World's Presidents: Miss Willard, Lady Henry Somerset, the Countess of Carlisle, and Anna Gordon. How happy my intimate associations with each one of them has been, and all the time our World's Union has been growing in influence. Our new World's President is following a succession of great women. We welcome Mrs Boole as another great leader.

Your loving comrade, AGNES G. SLACK.

CORRESPONDENCE.

(To the Editor.)

Dear Mrs Peryman,-

I would like to say, through the medium of your paper, how very much I appreciate the Dominion W.C.T.U. Library, and especially the present Librarian, Mrs Field. I don't think we realise fully what a lot of time Mrs Field gives to this work, and I do wish to thank her for recommending certain books to read. Through her, I have been able to read many of Maud Royden's books, which have been a wonderful help in the Christian life, especially "Life's Little Pitfalls," etc.; also Dr. Grenfell's books, "What Christ Means to Me," etc., and Harold Begbie's works, and "Broken "Broken Earthware," Lights," and many others. Just recently there has been quite a lot in our papers about the union of our churches, and indeed it was a wonderful statement by Archbishop Averil, "I am perfectly prepared to-morrow to cease to be an Anglican, and to become a humble member of the real Catholic Church." Evidently he realises, like Dr. Grenfell, what Christ means to him. If we have a perfect union with Him, we must have a perfect union with all who love and serve Him, whatever their creed, for all selfishness, bitterness, superiority, pomp and ceremony does not exist in Him.

Thanking you once again for making it possible to have friends so wonderful through the medium of books, I remain, Yours sincerely,

E. HOCKEY.

Champion Road, Richmond, May 27th, 1931.

THE BANQUET.

U.S.A. CONVENTION.

Perhaps nothing could better express the feelings of the delegates and visitors gathered on the last night for the Convention dinner, which was really a banquet, than the words of one of the persongs composed by Helen L. Byrnes and Mrs Flora Kays Hanson, and sung on that occasion:

We've been conventioning, We've been conventioning, Heigh-ho, we're much inspired. We've been conventioning.

We've had to early rise, To listen to the wise, Secured from them full many a plan New programmes to devise.

We've followed Ella Boole, Tuned in on Ida B., And listened to our DeYo dear, And Munns, the treasury.

Then Sara H. broadcast
The journal of the day,
Missouri Nellie stood up to tell
Where we should wend our way.

We love the Hoosier friends.
We love the Hoosier State;
The way that Stanley marshalled them
Is something to relate.

They entertained so grand, Rare hospitality, With aeroplane and radio, And full publicity.

And now we're homeward bound, We've truly been inspired; Our bags are packed, the bills are paid, Oh, dear—but—we—are—tired!!!

No. 289. "The Wheels of Time," post age 2d. (By Florence Barclay.) The story of how, for one woman, the wheels of time are put back.

By Mrs Wordsworth, of Te Kopuru:

No. 302. "The Moths of the Limberlost," postage 2d. By Gene Stratton Porter.

Can be borrowed, on receipt of postage, from the Librarian,

> MRS FIELD, "The Rocks," Nelson.

NEW BOOKS.

No. 303. "My Brother's Face," postage 3d. The story of a Hindu who, obeying the unwritten law of his people, after 12 or 13 years in America, returns to his birthplace. One seems to travel with him, meeting his people, listening to their conversation, and taking part in their ceremonies. An intensely interesting book.

No. 306. "The Sensitive Child," postage 2d. A mother's exprience with a sensitive boy, and how, with patience and care, she helps him over many difficult times.

Can be procured, on receipt of postage, from the Librarian,

> MRS FIELD. "The Rocks," Nelson.

(The Editor, "White Ribbon.")

Though, as a mere man, not eligible to be a member of your Union, yet I was recently privileged to read one of the books in your library, "Who is This Jesus?" and wish to tell you how much and favourably I was impressed by it. It presents the old truths in a fresh and arresting light.

I take it that the author is one of those "wise householders who can bring out of her treasure house things new" as well as "old." I sincerely hope the book will be much in demand among your members.

Yours truly,

R. HAMES,

B. M. HARBAND.

About three years ago I had not even heard of the W.C.T.U. Library. I have now read over fifty of the books contained therein. We have an excellent lending library in our town, but I find that in the W.C.T.U. library I can procure books which would be quite difficult to obtain elsewhere.

A few months ago I visited London, Paris, and several of the larger German cities, and there saw enough of the prostitution question to make me anxious to know the real facts. These I found clearly stated in (2) "Prostitution in Europe."

Then, too, Sex Hygiene. How many of our young people are groping with a natural curiosity, which should be healthily satisfied, for facts such as we find stated in many of the books in the W.C.T.U. library. Can the Y's join the library? If so, here is just what they desire and need.

I not only enjoy reading these books, but also spend much time in profitable discussion of the questions arising therefrom, with my most intimate

There are books, too, of other types, on the Temperance movement, the present day question of the League of Nations, and others of purely devotional character.

Some time ago, in speaking to a gentleman, I happened to mention some of the books I had been reading from this library. He quickly interrupted me by saying, "Those are just the books I want, but I don't know where to get hold of them." I replied, with emphasis (knowing he was not a teetotaller), "Well, you must get your lady friends to join the W.C.T.U."

So, sisters, let me urge you to join, not only for yourselves, but also for your husbands, brothers, sons and griands. I am sure you will not regret it, as you will thereby widen your interests, increase your knowledge, and develop your character.

Kajapoi held a question afternoon. Following five questions were submit-Will any of our readers like to send brief answers to these questions?

- (1) If gin is taken with oysters, would the oysters be preserved in the stomach?
- (2) Was it usual to have wine at 21st Birthday Parties?
 - (3) In what year was the franchise granted to women? parties were the strongest in opposing it, and who sponsored it through Parliament?
 - (4) Would the carrying of Prohibition increase unemployment?
 - (5) Supposing the bars were closed, would this make any difference to the amount of money the men would spend on themselves, or to the number of nights they would stay at home?

NEW BRIGHTON HEARS ABOUT CHILD WELFARE.

Mrs Taylor spoke of her work as Magistrate's Associate at the Children's Court, and of the many different organisations that had been founded in recent years for the welfare of children. She gave details of the working of the Child Welfare Act, and stated that there were 7085 children under the care of this Act in 1930. In the same year 360 babies were committed to the care of the Infant Life Protection Agent in Christchurch alone. The speaker earnestly urged that all present would do their utmost in using their influence in the careful upbringing of children.
