REPRISAL

The persistent and cruel attacks upon the civil populace of London are the dominating feature of the news of the past few weeks, and like the magnetic mine and other "surprise" features employed by the enemy, Great Britain will surely overcome such initial advantages expediently and efficiently with telling results. It took Germany many years to develop the magnetic mine and in more than seven years they have not discovered a counter for it; on the other hand Britain effectively countered it in seven days. It is interesting to note also that Britain had magnetic mines in the Great War. Apart from the fact that Germany's air offensive has been considerably checked in spite of the varying tactics employed, and the tremendous losses suffered by Germany during this "trying out" period, which far outweigh their military significance, these raids still continue with diminishing effectiveness. Germany has not, and never will gain ascendancy in the air, for the freedom of the air will be mastered by Britain as surely as the freedom of the seas. It is even more interesting to note that these opinions are expressed by many competent neutral observers.

Meanwhile negotiations are in progress with the United States of America for the purchase of "flying fortresses" presumably for the purposes of reprisals against the cruel attacks of wanton destruction. Nothwithstanding the brilliant successes of the R.A.F. in destroying military objectives in Germany and throughout the occupied countries the effectiveness of such "flying fortresses" can be visualised by the known performances of such craft which have a very long flying range and can operate at a height to which no attacking planes can ascend. They are capable of carrying tremendous loads of high explosives and are well equipped with machine guns. The "flying fortress" is officially known as B-17 and is a four-motored bomber built by the Boeing Aircraft Corporation. Two years ago a formation of these planes flew a distance of 10,000 miles and yet another flight of 2,500 miles was accomplished at 20,000 feet with a maximum of 33,000 feet which is 6,000 feet above the normal height of bombers. The latter flight was made in about nine and a quarters hours. The cabins were electrically heated and the outside temperatures were sometimes 12 degrees below zero. The average speed maintained was 270 miles an hour with a maximum of 376 m.p.h. The plane has a wingspread of 105 feet and weights 22 tons and is capable of carrying four 2,000 lb. bombs besides smaller bombs. The advantages of the "flying fortress" are all-weather efficiency, range, and the fact that it travels so high that ground instruments and observers would never detect its approach. A sizeable fleet of these planes are capable of blasting Berlin and what is left of Germany out of existence to say nothing of Rome and Italian possessions. One thing is certain, you can rely upon Britain to do the right thing at the right time and the resultant outcome will dispel all doubts of complete mastery of the situation.

N.Z.E.F. IN EGYPT

Two Casualties Reported

The following casualties in the 2nd N.Z.E.F. in Egypt were announced yes terday :-

Private Oliver Lowe, died from shock following multiple burns. Father: Mr. J. Lowe, River Road, Rangiora.

Lance Bombardier Jack Patrick Joseph Regan, accidentally wounded. Wife: Mrs. J. P. J. Regan, 137 Great North Road, New Lynn.

The Home Defence Column

"DIGS AT DIGGERS!"

A lively bi-weekly column of Soldiers' Wit and Gossip, collected, compiled and contributed by "One-of-the-Boys."

Thumbs up!

It won't be long-soon.

Measles certainly put the men of the 4th Reinforcements on the spot.

The "Blues" are still raging at Buckle Street.

And yet another epidemic of the famed "Gunners' Bot' has broken out at Dorset.

The Winter Show, of course, is now out of season.

"Black Tracker Mats Slacker." Tongue-twister, eh? Exceedingly hollow laugh from the A.S.C.

Somes Island soliloguy:

"Stalwart guards and/or doughty prisoners."

Miss me to-night, Sergeant-Major! why isn't the flag up?"

Anyone would imagine that the boys of the 22nd Anti-Ack hadn't seen a 'plane before, the way they pick 'em up in the sky each night.

REEL OUT THE BARREL!

Our S/M's Monicker rhymes with egg, He never stops 'till he's drained the last dreg.

The day he was "crowned," They thought he was drowned-. . but at last he crawled out of the keg!

Here is one about a bow-legged cowgirl who had an awful time keeping and when they beat on their tum-tums her calves together.

THE DISPATCH RIDERS' LAMENT.

Dirty days hath September, April, June and November. From January and up to May The Rain, it raineth every day. That February lacks but one or two Is just as well for me and you. For all the rest have thirty-one Without a blessed gleam o' sun . . . And even if they all had two and thirty-

They'd be quite as wet and twice as dirty!

SERGEANTS ON DISPAY. (Heard at Buckle Street)

Pompous Arty, Sergeant: "My man,

Orderly N.C.O. (an old Digger): "What's it to do with you?"

P.A. Sgt.: "You can't speak to me like that. Do you know who I am?" Orderly N.C.O.: "You tell me, an' we'll both know."

P.A. Sgt. (drawing himself up to his full five feet two): "I'm a Sergeant from the Winter Show!"

Orderly N.C.O. (moving off): "I don't care if you're a bloomin' Sergeant from the ruddy Zoo. . . . !"

Doris had ben listening to a missionary relating his adventures in Africa.

Telling her father about it afterwards, she haid: "Sometimes they did not have any food for day and days, it could be heard for miles around."

Large and enthusiastic attendances marked Friday and Saturday night dances at the A.N.A. Club in Wellington. On both nights there were present men of the Army, Navy, Merchant Navy and Air Force, and the comfortable facilities offering were made full

Though the club is not so well known just at the present to a number of men, later it will prove a popular rendezvous with many. Already good daily average attendances of men have been the rule since the club began its daily opening from last Sunday week, the hours being from 11 in the morning to 10.30 at night. The boys have been coming in to write letters, do some work, and rest. Light meals have been served at all hours.

During the evening on Saturday the gathering was addressed by Miss Johnston, matron, and Miss Guthric, education officer, on the ship which recently brought the party of Scots children to New Zealand. Both expressed their pleasure at being present and the crowd sang "For they are jolly good fellows" and gave three cheers for them.

R.N.Z.A.F. BAND

Model Of Famous Guards Bands At Home

IMPRESSIVE COMBINATION

Judged by the performance of the Central Band of the R.N.Z.A.F. at Athletic Park on Saturday, a fresh chapter is about to be written into the history of band music in New Zealand, a chapter which will mark the foundation on its true basis of the military band, modelled on the Guards' bands at Home. Reconstructed and reorganized from the original Air Force Band—a territorial organization—the Central Band of the R.N.Z.A.F: now consists purely of enlisted members of the R.N.Z.A.F., and has a strength of 58-48 instrumentalists, both brass and woodwind, and 10 drummers. cludes many leading instrumentalists, some of them having won Dominion championships.

Probably the most noted of the few military bands that have existed in this country is Derry's Band, Christchurch. an organization patterned on the Guards' bands. In its best days, this band had a membership of upward of Noted military bands which have visited New Zealand are Sousa's Band. the Royal Artillery Band from Woolwich, which took part in the Auckland Exhibition, probably the finest combination of its kind to visit this country, the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders Band under Lieut. Ricketts, composer of the march "Colonel Bogey," which appeared at the Dunedin Exhibition. and the Grenadier Guards Band.

The Central Band of the R.N.Z.A.F. is the first real New Zealand approach to the true military band. For marching the instrumentation is confined to woodwind and brass, but for concert performances the string sections will be introduced. Possessing so great an array of talent, the band should prove a great attraction both in concert programmes and in military displays, and there is a likelihood that such a band may be utilized to tour New Zealand for patriotic purposes.

Interesting Innovations.

Under the charge of Flight Lieut. Gladstone Hill, Director of Music for the R.N.Z.A.F., the band has already attained a high standard of musical proficienecy, as was indicated by the intonation and general standard of musicianship on Saturday. A feature was the front line of six trombones—an in-novation in New Zealand and one that greatly impressed bandsmen and band lovers among the crowd. The quality of the trombone playing in the march "Nationa! Emblem" was very pleasing.

Much yet remains to be accomplished in military movements by the band, but MEN HURT BY BURSTING . Saturday's display was a most commendable one considering that the only practice in military movements the band had had took place on Saturday morning under Drum-Major A. V. Brown, drill instructor from the Woodbourne Blenheim. Drum-Major aerodrome, Brown is well known to the Wellington public, having been drum-major to the Wellington Caledonian Society's Pipe Band. He was marshal at the octa-Park in October of last year.

Another interesting feature of Saturday's performance was a fanfare introduction by cornets, horns and trombones to the National Anthem, specially arranged by Flight Lieut, Gladstone

"A young fisherman was transferred to the Northern Patrol-somewhere between Shetland's and Ice-The undermentioned Lieutenants land, where the sea is very rough.

But he continued to write cheer-G. J. Frengley, M.B., Ch.B.; C. ful letters to his mother-like this: three down and three up!"

BOMB

(From the Official War Correspondent with the New Zealand Expeditionary Force in Britain.)

ENGLAND, September 27.

The Second Echelon's first casualties in enemy action were sustained today serpentine display at Athletic when an aerial bomb burst 15 feet ahead of a full bus containing members of the Auckland Battalion. The bus was overturned and two men were slightly wounded, in the face and thigh respectively.

The bus was returning from a swimming parade. The bomb was one of several dropped in a south-eastern town when a formation of 16 enemy planes heading toward London was broken up by anti-aircraft guns and British fighters.

Two of the raiders suffered severely at the hands of the British fighters. One German pilot who landed his machine intact but was himself badly hospital by members of the Wellington Battalion.

RUGBY IN EGYPT

Successful New Zealand Army Team

The success of the New Zealand Army Rugby team, chosen from members of the First Echelon of the Second New Zealand Expeditionary Force, in Egypt, is recalled by the photograph appearing today of the side. Captained by the well-known Poneke, Wellington mise of affording stout opposition to and All Black footballer, J. L. Griffiths, the New Zealand Army team beat a combined British Army and Royal Air Force team 20-0 at Cairo on March 25.

The New Zealand team was chosen about the time that inter-unit Rugby matches were in progress in Egypt. The inter-unit competition was won by the team representing the Wellington Regiment, also captained by Griffiths, which beat the Welsh Regiment team 11-9 in the final at Cairo early in May.

The New Zealand Army team which defeated the British side on March 27 contains, in addition to Griffiths, 'wo other All Blacks in T. C. Morrison, the brilliant South Canterbury wing-threequarters, and J. G. Wynyard, the tall Waikato side-row forward. In addition, Major J. T. Burrows, who was a member of the selection committee, toured South Africa with the All Blacks in 1928 as a front-row forward.

The chairman of the selection committee, Lieutenant-Colonel T. J. King, is well known as a Rugby administrator in this country. For many years he was a member of the management committee of the Wellington Rugby Union, and in 1939 he became a member of the executive of the New Zealand Rugby Union.

Apart from the three All Blacks in the team, there were 10 provincial representatives in the side—Rollinson, full-back, from South Canterbury; Knowles, wing-threequarters, Petone and Wellington; R. Arnold, centre-threequarters, Taranaki; L. Arnold, five-eighths, Taranaki; D. J. Parsons, half-back, South Canterbury; G. Wales, forward, Athletic and Wellington; J. Coull (vice-captain), forward, Taranaki and 1939 All Black trial player; R. K. Anderson, forward, Auckland; G. R. Stow, front-row forward, Canterbury; and A. McBeath, hooker, from Auckland. Thompson and Kidd, the remaining forwards, are from South Auckland.

SPECIAL RUGBY MATCHES

AT A.N.A. CLUB

Weekend Attendances

There were excellent attendances at the A.N.A. Club on both Friday and Saturday nights, and a most enjoyable time was spent by men of the three Services and their partners. A hamper for supper was received from the Masterton branch of the W.D.F.U., per Mrs. C. C. Jackson. On Friday night Middleton's orchestra gave its services. On that night the Misses Dorothy Harris and Valmai Richardson were in and on Saturday charge of dancing, Miss Patricia Gledhill.

WELLINGTON TROTS.

Excellent Acceptances.

SATURDAY'S MEETING.

The Wellington Trotting Club has received excellent acceptances for its meeting on Saturday, which will start the light harness season in the southern half of the North Island.

Among the horses engaged are a those from Canterbury stables.

In pursuance of its policy of steadily improving the course amenities, a new ladies' cloakroom has been pro-vided, and the main bar under the members' stand has been substantially enlarged. The rain which has fallen during the past few days has softened up the track, which, however, recov-ers quickly under the influence of wind and sun. Provided that fine weather is experienced from now on the course should be in good, though not fast, order by the time racing begins on Saturday.

The acceptances are as follows:-

BOXING AT NELSON

Rayner Beats Hansen

In a professional lightweight boxing contest Clarrie Rayner, 9st. 8lb. (Blenheim), beat Tommy Hansen, 9st. 6lb. (Wellington), on points. It was a fairly bright display, but the winner had the edge on his opponent throughout.

EMPIRE WRESTLING TITLE

Retained By Katan DRAWN MATCH WITH McCREADY

John Katan retained the British Empire wrestling championship title as a result of his match with Earl Mc-Cready in the Wellington Town Hall on Monday night. The bout was drawn, neither obtaining a fall. The match was very hard and lawless. At one stage the referee was projected from the ring. Both contestants completely exhausted themselves in vain efforts to force a decision.

McCready weighed 17st, 2lb., Katan 16st. 10lb. Mr. A. Jenkins refereed. There was a very large attendance.

McCready made good use of a powerful arm-bar for the greater part of the first round. Katan kicked him in the face and escaped, leaving McCready overhauling his jaw to be sure it was still working.

Warned for punching McCready's face when holding him in a headlock, Katan promptly did it again. The referee broke the hold. Katan re-established it, knuckling McCready's eye. When he broke free, McCready tried a headlock, but Katan pushed him off a headlock, but Katan pushed him off by the face. They exchanged jolts; McCready's proved the more effective. "What d'you say?" asked the referee of Katan, who lay on his back, victim of a keylock. Katan said nothing till Mc-Cready had twisted both his legs into a somewhat intricate pattern, whereon he grabbed the referee, and in the resultant confusion slipped away. Some brisk ex-changes followed.

Referee Thrown From Ring.

Referee Thrown From Ring.

Katan bent McCready backward over the ropes. Told to break, he lodged a good-bye knock. When he pinioned McCready again, the referee was at hand to prevent a recurrence. But this time it was McCready who let fly the parting jolt. Katan rushed at McCready, but the latter stood up and traded jolt for jolt. Katan ran away, and when McCready caught him, escaped into the ropes. McCready was loath to let him go. When he caught him again in a corner, the referee had to push between them to separate them. McCready promptly picked up both Katan and Mr. Jenkins in an armful, and heaved them out of the ring. Finding jolts of no avail, Katan drove a knee into McCready's face.

McCready bumped Katan in a head-scissors, Katan groaning and rubbing his pate.

In the sixth round Katan jolted Mc-Cready and gave him an aeroplane spin—but McCready held him in a crucifix and was on top when they landed on the

The pace, furious throughout the bout, was by now telling on both wrestlers, and there was a brief lull, before the bout and there was a brief Iull, before the bout culminated at whirlwind tempo.

McCready sent Katan rolling across the mat with flying tackles. He brought him down, head-over-heels, with a flying body-scissors. The crowd was on its feet as McCready strove to press Katan's shoulders to the mat. Failing, he jolted Katan vigorously, and they rolled through the ropes interlocked, taking the referee with them. The contest closed with both with them. The contest closed with both wrestlers dazed with jolts staggering round the ring aiming ineffectual swings staggering at one another.

Victories are won, and great things are accomplished not by the isolated efforts of the individual, but the combined efforts of the few or many, all striving towards a common objective under a supreme command. Each has courage under assault of the common his own particular task, the accomplishing of which is marked by his own individuality and none can do the other's work, yet for success each is dependent upon all the others. The final result is measured, not by the success or failure of the individual, but by the effect of the combined efforts of all.

Team work, for that is what it really is, calls for the exercise of trust and patience-trust in the higher command and in fellow-workers, and patience to go on, even when one's own efforts appears to be in vain. It calls for personal sacrifice, and the setting aside of personal desires, the willingness to suit one's own identity for the good of all, and the final success of the undertaking, but the reward is the assurance of a fight well fought, a race well run.

May God enable us all throughout the Empire, to go on trusting Him, submitting ourselves to His correction, His guidance and instruction and testing, until we come forth as a people fitted to do His will on earth and owning His Son as our Redeemer and

The war was over. Hitler's death had finished it. And the corporal who had helped to lay well and truly the body underground was describing the scene.

"The Germans put the coffin down twenty-five times," he said.

"Twenty-five times" echoed listeners. "What for?"

"Encores," said the corporal.

SECOND ECHELON IN POSITION

Part In Britain's Defence

WATCHING AND WAITING FOR INVADERS

The function of her European army in this most glorious fortnight of Britain's civilian history has been to watch and wait-to line the ramparts of England, ready, if the foe should he will never recover.

Though a very small unit among the million and a quarter men thus standing to arms, the New Zealand second echelon has been honoured with an important forward position and in the last week has further improved its plans for striking quickly and hard when the call comes.

British public opinion on the possibility of an invasion remains divided, but with growing might against it. None the less, the preparedness already unparalleled in this island's long story of hard-fought freedom is being intensified daily.

It is distasteful to be, as it were, idly standing by while the air force and navy do all the work and unprotected women and children bear much of the brunt of the vicious and merciless attack, but it is a part which the needs of the moment require of the soldiers.

Meanwhile, it is an unforgettable privilege to be here and to gather inspiration from the incomparable valour of our airmen and the magnificent people of Britain.

MEN OF THE FORCES

150 Enjoying Sunday Hospitality

On Sunday last 150 men from all arms of the fighting services gathered in the lounge of the Wellington Y.M.C.A. to enjoy the hospitality provided for them by women of the Khandallah Presbyterian Church, under the leadership of their president, Mrs. Hudson. The chairman was Mr. J. G. Smith, who was accompanied by Mrs. Smith, and associated with him were the Rev. and Mrs. D. D. Scott and Mr. A. R. Brunt.

In welcoming the men Mr. Smith mentioned that a free membership was extended to all men of the forces, and that all the facilities of the Y.M.C.A. 'Itler, but give 'im a good hidin' jes' were open to them at all times. might be of interest to know that Y.M.C.A. huts were established in 11 military camps, and six in Air Force training centres. In the Air Force camps the Y.M.C.A. conducted a post office which was kept open all hours, restricted to the usual Post Office This extra facility provided by the Y.M.C.A. was much appreciated. Mr. Smith mentioned that already there were 13 Y.M.C.A. secretaries overseas with the Second New Zealand Expedi-

The "All Clear!" had sounded and people were filing from the air raid shelter.

"Lot of frightened sheep," scoffed a sceptical young man. "All dashing in there as fast as their legs could carry them. Why, I was in bed when the siren went. I shaved, washed, dressed and then strolled down to this shelter."

"Is that so?" said the Bright Young come, to strike him a blow from which Thing. "But aren't your legs cold without your trousers?"

"And the same to you," muttered the Colonel under his breath, as he returned the private's salute.

Again it happened . . . and again. The Adjutant was puzzled. "Forgive me, if I seem rude, sir, but why the 'same to you?'" he asked.

The Colonel smiled, reminiscently. "Well, old chap,' 'he said, "I was once a ranker myself, and I know just what they are thinking when they salute me."

Ricochets

"Buy British Eggs," urges an advertisement in a contemporary. And scorn the foreign yolk.

A correspondent says that war broke out the day after he got married. Just a coincidence!

At least one optimistic member of the Special Force at Trentham provided for every contingency when he made his will. Should his tent ever be chosen as the best-kept in the company, he wrote, his share of the prize was to go to his next-of-kin.

Giving evidence last week, a soldier complained to a magistrate that every time he comes home on leave, his wife goes through his pockets systematically each night. What one might call a repeating rifle.
