THE FIRST ISSUE

This is the first issue of the PAKURA PARADE, a publication which should both give pleasure to and provide amusement for many. The recording of the little events that mostly make up Camp life will provide mental exercise for those who wish later on - or even now - to develop or try out their journalistic talents. That alone may make the Parade worth while, but it is pleasing to know that Humour is to be encouraged. The retention of a sense of humour among soldiers - even Base Wallahs - is often the one thing that saves them from trouble or even sometimes catastrophe.

The Camp is well off in its many appointments and conveniences but the publication of a Camp Newspaper, written preferably in lighter vein, is very acceptable. In any event we should all encourage any new bright idea that serves any useful purpose or tends to infuse fresh interest in our life.

On behalf of all ranks in the Camp I welcome the PAPAKURA PARADE and wish the Editor and his associates as well as the publication every success and for the latter a life as long as the Camp.
