

LECTURE ON ARMY EDUCATION

The Army Education Officer, Lieut. A.J. Campbell, visited Rangiora Camp on Thursday evening, 18 February, to discuss the recently introduced Army Education scheme. In a lucid and interesting manner the speaker sketched the general purpose of the whole idea. After the lecture a number of personnel approached him for enrollment forms and to ask questions.

Courses include engineering, building construction, accountancy, English composition, agriculture. A number of others are to be added shortly. Those taking the farming course will be given the opportunity of visiting the Lincoln College, and lecturers from the College will visit the Camp from time to time.

A Mobile Film Unit is also included in the scheme and will screen a number of interesting films of wide appeal, both instructive and entertaining.

Enquiries concerning the Army Education Welfare Service can be made from Mr. Oram, Unit Education Officer.

Laugh while you may and live in clover
For when you're dead you're dead all over.

Captain: Any volunteers for the cookhouse?

Recruit: Yes, I will go.

Captain: Have you done any cooking?

Recruit: Yes.

Captain: In big coppers?

Recruit: Yes.

Captain: What?

Recruit: Asphalt.

A young officer returning from leave abroad was about to take his place in an air-liner when a girl ran up and asked the passengers if any one of them would be kind enough to sell her his seat, as her mother was dangerously ill and the liner was full up.

The young officer gave up his seat, and wired his C.O.: "Given berth to girl. Returning by next plane."

The reply he received ran: "Congratulations. Your next confinement will be in barracks."

For butting a sergoant with his head, a recruit was given seven days C.B. Perhaps that will teach him not to act the goat in the future. . .
